WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Angered by the injection of what he termed party politics into American foreign policy, President Roosevelt today re-stated that policy to his press conference as follows:

- 1.—We are against any entangling alliance.
- 2.—We are a nation favor continuance of world trade for everybody.
- 3.—We are in sympathy with every effort made to reduce world armaments.
- 4.—As a nation, we are sympathetic with peaceful maintenance of the political, economic and social independence of all nations in the world.

Brands Statement As Lie

President Roosevelt branded as "a deliberate lie" the reports that he had told members of the senate military affairs committee that American's frontier lay on the Rhine.

He declared that this nation's foreign policy should not be involved in party politics—that the 1940 political campaign should not enter into the question of national defense in 1939.

The president described unnamed senators, representatives and newspaper owners as "agitators" who are spreading "sheer bunk." He said they are appealing to the prejudices and fears of the public in a most un-American way and he noted that they are receiving the acclaim of those governments which do not wish the independence of all nations.

Policy Covered

Mr. Roosevelt said this nation's foreign policy had been thoroughly covered in his message to congress, and that nothing new had been injected into it.

Charges of secrecy leveled against his conduct of foreign affairs were branded as "100 per cent bunk" by the president.

The president said he had told members of both the senate military affairs committee and the house appropriations subcommittee on military appropriations certain things of a confidential nature, but asked (Continued On Page Two)

Senate Committee Ponders Secrecy On Defense Testimony

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The senate military affairs committee met today to decide if it should make public the testimony on national defense it received at secret sessions and whether to hold public hearings in the future.

While the senate naval affairs committee seemed to be planning to have its hearings open to public there was an overwhelming sentiment in both committees to safeguard secrets of value to national defense. It was apparent that arrangements would be made to prevent such disclosures.

To Investigate Report

Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota said he has received reports "that the administration has released for sale to Britain the army's new mechanical airplane detector." He described the detector as "one of the most ingenious instruments ever devised and regarded as the army's greatest military secret."

"I believe these reports should be investigated," Nye said. Meanwhile, on other fronts, criticisms of President Roosevelt's foreign policy increased. Though Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said publicly for the operations of the secret $2,000,000,000 foreign exchange stabilization fund would be against the public interest, demands continued on Capitol Hill for full publicity. Senator Lodge (R) of Massachusetts said he would continue his pressure for public airing of deals made by Morgenthau with England and France.

Blasts Shake London Stations

London's Subway System Is Scene Of Two Mysterious Explosions

(International News Service)

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Two explosions attributed by police to sympathizers of the outlawed Irish Republican army, shook two stations of London's subway system today. The ticket collector at the Tottenham Court road station was injured by a blast there. His condition was described as serious. Authorities detained one person in the station at the time of the explosion.

The second blast occurred at the Leicester Square station. Windows opposite the station entrance were smashed by the force of the explosion. Five persons were injured so seriously they required hospital attention.

Asks Statement
Major Clement Attlee, Laborite parliamentary leader, later demanded a statement from the government in the house of commons regarding the blasts.

Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare replied the explosions "apparently were due to bombs with time fuses left in the cloakroom overnight." He added that "investigations are being actively pursued."

It was believed a bomb left in a suitcase was responsible for the Tottenham explosion. Luggage in the station office was wrecked and water pipes burst, flooding the station.

As soon as the explosions occurred heavy police guards rushed to both stations to prevent further violence. The Tottenham Court depot was reopened at 9:30 a. m. about three hours after the explosion there. Police expressed belief a suitcase with the bomb was placed in the baggage room shortly before midnight.

International Parley Suggested In Japan

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Feb. 3.—Japanese Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita today suggested an international parley in Tokyo as a means of making foreign nations "understand" Japan's activities in the Far East.

Addressing the budget committee of the house of representatives, Arita said:

"It may be necessary to call an international conference in Tokyo if there is no other way of making the 'third powers' understand Japan's attitude regarding China."

The foreign minister said Japan is prepared to repel any attacks, not only from Soviet Russia but from any other country.

He urged the Japanese public to refrain from giving what he called needless stimulus to anti-Japanese feeling among the American public.

READING, Pa., Feb. 3.—James William Wadsworth, butler in the nearby Laureldale home of C. E. Standard, Reading industrialist, today revealed that he was the English domestic whose marriage to the late Countess of Ravensworth created a sensation in London 35 years ago.

Ill in his quarters at the Standard home today, Wadsworth recalled his two years of married life with the Peeress who died Wednesday in England at the age of 93. The marriage, he said, came two years after the death of the Earl of Ravensworth, for whom Wadsworth was valet.

Despite opposition from the Countess' family, the marriage was happy until the Countess suddenly left home. Wadsworth said, Wadsworth subsequently conducted a riding school in Wheeling, W. Va., and about 25 years ago married Bertha Hoyer, of Reading. The couple have two sons, James, of Waynesboro, and Wilfred, of Bermuda.

Michael Rich, Jr. Shot And Killed In Father's Home

Young Woman Employed In Home Surrenders To Constable After Shooting

NO WITNESSES TO CRIME REPORTED

Angeline Maravella, Aged 22, Held In County Jail As Result Of Shooting

Apparently as he stood at the telephone in his home in Hillsville, talking to his brother in New Castle, Michael Rich, Jr., 23, was shot and killed this morning at about ten-fifteen allegedly by Angeline Maravella, 22, a domestic in the Rich home. After the shooting the girl put on her hat and coat, walked down to the office of Constable C. N. Shingledecker and gave herself up. Fifteen minutes later Michael Rich, Sr., came into the home and found his son, dead on the floor.

What actually preceded the killing of Rich may never be known. The two were alone in the home at the time. The girl tells of some trouble and displays her torn dress as proof. Joseph Rich, 24, the brother to whom Michael was talking, was in a South Jefferson street garage in New Castle and heard the shot but thought it was something that had fallen to the floor.

"He Ruined Me"

"He ruined me and then turned me down," said the girl as she talked to Squire J. H. Eakin and Constable Shingledecker. "He promised to marry me and then refused. Lately he had been calling me vile names and this morning I shot him as we quarreled." She is in the county jail and this afternoon an information charging first degree murder is being made by District Attorney John G. Lamore.

The Rich family is a well known and highly respected family in Hillsville. Michael Rich, Sr., was born in the village and has raised a family consisting of Joseph, 24, Mary, (Mrs. Samuel Gasperoni) Andrew, 17, and Lawrence 14. Mrs. Rich died in June 1938 and since that time the Maravella girl has been working in the home. Prior to that she had worked a day or two each week.

The father of the family is a foreman with the Lake Erie Limestone Company and operates several trucks. Both Michael, Jr., and Joseph operate trucks for him.

Brother Tells Story

Joseph, the brother, said that early today Michael had taken the head off a truck engine while he (Joseph) went to New Castle. While Joseph was in the Bailey garage on South Jefferson street, the telephone rang and he was called. Michael was on the line at Hillsville.

"He told me to get some push rods for the truck and I told him we had some in the cupboard," said Joseph. "He hung up the receiver and then in a few minutes called me back again. He said he had found the rods and I talked for a few minutes about some other things we needed. Then I heard the shot."

"At the time I did not realize it was a shot and I thought my brother had hung up or the connection had been broken. After thinking it over for a few minutes I called back and Angeline answered the phone. She said 'hello' three times and she sounded queer. I didn't say a word but hung up right away."

"Mike never fooled around the girl but she fooled around with me. She (Continued On Page Two)

FRANTIC EFFORTS AT RESCUE MADE

Acting Fire Chief Among Those Missing—Fire In Old Building

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Rescue gangs toiled ceaselessly today in an effort to reach eight firemen, trapped and believed to have perished in a general alarm fire that destroyed the four-story Collins Block, ancient office building, early this morning.

Hope had been abandoned that the men would be found alive, although some, at least, survived for several hours, but relays of fellow firemen pressed forward in a narrow tunnel below the street level, seeking to burrow through with pick and shovel to the cellar where the entombed men were plunged when a slide-wall of the flaming building collapsed.

Those trapped were:
Acting Chief Thomas Dugan,
Lieut. Raymond Bauder,
Lieut. Albert G. Young,
Firemen: James E. Diamond, John W. Agan, Michael Dixon, Frank Kerlin.

Three other fire-fighters were in Syracuse hospitals where they were taken suffering from critical injuries. All had a good chance for recovery.

Were On Roof

The entombed men were part of a group which had fought its way to the roof of the flaming structure and, from that vantage point, was seeking to direct efforts to quench the general alarm blaze.

Suddenly, with the only warning the ominous creaking of aged cross-bars, a sidewalk collapsed, plunging (Continued On Page Two)

Charge Foreign Brigades Again Active In Spain

(International News Service)

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Three international brigades, disbanded by the Spanish government, have reappeared again in Spain, the Spanish (Insurgent) press service charged today.

Hillsville Girl Tells Her Story

Angeline Maravella Relates Incidents Preceding Day's Tragedy

In the living room of Sheriff M. M. Ingham residence this afternoon Angeline Maravella told the story of the killing of Michael Rich, this morning. Eyes flashing, sometimes sobbing she told a story as old as time, a woman spurned by a man who had his way.

"I loved Mike with all my heart and soul," she said.

"It was his father's fault. I was good enough to scrub and work for them, but no I wasn't good enough for his son Mike."

"Mike loved me. About the time his mother died Mike started fooling around me. He said he loved me and then one night he got what he wanted. He promised he would marry me but his father turned against him."

"One day his father beat Mike for going out with me and some time later Mike said all the time there is trouble about you. Then he quit going out with me or telling me he loved me."

"I pleaded with him. I begged him to come back but he only got worse. He wouldn't have anything to do with me."

"Last Wednesday night I was visiting in another home and he came in with a post card a friend had sent me. The friend had addressed it to me in care of Mike Rich."

"Next time you try any funny business try it on your own box," Mike told me.

"This morning I went over to his sister's house. One of the brothers came in and said to Angie that Mike is going around with another girl and he is going to marry her."

"I came back over to the Rich home and Mike was just coming out the door. I said Mike don't you love me any more. Remember what you did to me. Try to understand."

"He walked by and said you're no woman, and went into the garage. I was mad. I went upstairs and got out the gun that belongs to Mike Rich, Sr. and came back downstairs. Mike, Jr., came into the room and he grabbed at my dress and tore it. I said you'll pay for this."

"I am going to kill you."

"He said you're not going to kill anybody."

I walked over and picked up a pillow to protect myself and as he was standing at the telephone I let him have it. Even after I shot him he started to struggle with me and I gave him three more. I killed him. "As she finished, tears were in her eyes and she was asked if she wanted a glass of water."

Straightening up in the chair she replied "no I'm all right I don't need any water."

Her story throughout was told in a dramatic fashion. After she finished she was taken back to the woman's department of the jail. The girl is an attractive looking young lady. Coal black hair and eyes that are nearly as dark with an olive complexion she is comely and attractive.

W.P.A. Fund Bill Goes To White House

Expect President To Sign Quickly

Sum Of $725,000,000 Provided In Measure Approved By Congress

REORGANIZATION OF RELIEF PROPOSED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL, International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Complete reorganization of federal relief today became the goal of bi-partisan congressional foes of WPA management as the $725,000,000 emergency relief bill was sent to the White House.

Earlier proposals for a sweeping congressional investigation of WPA were virtually abandoned by Republican house leaders in favor of a movement for complete revamping of relief methods.

The struggle over relief revision will develop when President Roosevelt will submit requests for appropriations for the fiscal year starting July 1. The emergency relief bill is designed to carry on WPA until that date.

Need Substitute

A Republican program, based largely upon the return of relief to state and local administration is expected. A bi-partisan senate group plans to force consideration of the Byrnes committee program for establishment of a new government department of public works.

"I don't think the WPA needs any more investigation," said Rep. Tabor of New York, Republican appropriation committee leader in the house. "The more we go into it the worse it smells. What congress should do is to abolish WPA and substitute an intelligent program of handling the relief situation. I hope that there might be that kind of attitude, of putting the interest of the country before party."

Mr. Roosevelt, in his budget message, indicated that $1,750,000,000 would be required for WPA, the National Youth Administration and Farm Security Administration for the next fiscal year.

For all recovery and relief, he estimated $2,266,165,000, or $921,530,000 less than this year.

Expect President To Sign

The emergency WPA appropriation of $725,000,000 will increase the relief cost of this agency, the youth and farm security administrations to well over $2,000,000,000, for the current fiscal year.

Mr. Roosevelt was expected to quickly sign the $725,000,000 bill, but may issue a statement criticizing congress for failing to grant the $875,000,000 he requested. Confronted by a statement in the bill inviting him to seek more funds if he finds the appropriation inadequate, the president is expected to insist that congress provide the original amount sought.

It is possible, some members of congress said, that the relief needs for the present fiscal year may be boosted by the president since the bill limits WPA reductions in February and March to five per cent of the total roster.

France and England against aggressor nations, consensus in congress appeared to be that his recommendation for expansion of the army and navy would be enacted. But proposals to revise the neutrality law face sharp debate.

Coupled with the controversy over neutrality legislation, some veteran senators believed, is the issue of what policy congress shall prescribe for foreign relations.

The military affairs committee was trying to decide what parts of the secret testimony concerning the official French air mission in the United States should be made public. Chairman Sheppard said "I am going to listen to arguments of the committee members and then make up my mind." The five Republican committee members favor public hearings, with executive sessions held only when important military secrets are discussed.

Favor Public Hearings

"I am in favor of public hearings on such matters as training pilots for the army air corps and to hear witnesses representing public groups, but I think on matters of vital importance to our national defense, the so-called secrets of our military, we should have executive sessions," said Senator Marvel M. Logan (D) of Kentucky. "I don't believe we should allow a lot of stuff to get out that would simply make our people jittery," he added.

Senator Reynolds (D) of North Carolina was emphatic in his demand for public hearings. He and Logan are members of the committee.

"This is public business and it should be made public," Reynolds said. "I believe there is very little in all of our secret hearings that ought to be kept secret. Ambassadors Bullitt and Kennedy did not tell us in a secret session with the house military affairs committee anything I did not already know and which ought to be kept from the American people."

He was referring to William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, and Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain.

Urged Aid To French

Bullitt, according to committee members, urged the administration, especially Secretary Morgenthau, to give the French air mission assistance in buying up-to-the-minute American war planes. It was the crash of a Douglas bomber at Los Angeles last week, with a member of the French mission aboard, that led to the committee's secret sessions of inquiry.

Members of the committee claimed they have what they described as an army-navy regulation that forbids any foreigner to ride in a plane being built under specifications of the war and navy departments. Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson and Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, were said to have issued the order on August 10, 1938.

HAMMER SLAYING OF WIFE AND SON IN 1935 CONFESSED

Stewart had been given up three years ago because it was believed he was a suicide, heard his story and then immediately called in District Attorney Andrew T. Park, to whom the official confession was given in a four-hour ordeal early today.

"I came to Pittsburgh because I wanted to get the whole thing off my mind," police quoted Stewart as telling them.

Then he told how "my mind went blank" when he became crazed by debt, and when he came to, he told authorities, he found his wife and son dead from hammer and knife blows. With only $11 in his pocket he made his escape to Jacksonville, Fla., where he has been until his return to Pittsburgh yesterday, it was claimed for him.

Relates Details

For the next four and one-half hours, police said, Stewart sat with his arms folded and calmly related the details of the tragedy and of his subsequent life as a man haunted by the fear of capture and guilt.

With a hammer and a bread knife, in a blind, futile rage over matters which he could not control, he murdered his wife, Mary Louise McClelland Stewart, 29, in their tiny home above a Wilkesburg garage June 15, 1935, he was said to have confessed to police, and then he walked into another room where his son, Norman, III, slept and beat the child into oblivion.

At the time, he said, he only had a $15-a-week depression job as a clerk in a small grocery store, and his debts kept piling up without his being able to pay any of them off. It was this that finally set him off, he said.

Argument Over Finances

"My wife and I had an argument over finances," he was quoted, "I remember everything up to the point where I killed them. My mind is blank, though, about the actual murders."

"The next thing I remember was that they were dead. I had $11 in my pocket. I walked out on the highway and hitch-hiked my way to Jacksonville, Fla."

A few days ago I decided to come back to Pittsburgh and get it off my mind."

The district attorney's office indicated the confession was "satisfactory in every detail," and Stewart smilingly signed the 18-page confession after hurriedly glancing it over.

He had been indicted by the grand jury on September 23, 1935, on two charges of murder and involuntary manslaughter, and listed as "not apprehended."

But the crime preyed on his mind. He couldn't sleep and was at all times miserable. Finally he decided to confess, according to Park.

He stole $368 from the cash register of the Jacksonville Mayflower Hotel, Park added, gave some of the money to his wife and hurried to Pittsburgh by bus and hitchhiking.

From New York he telephoned his slain wife's brother, W. C. McClelland, and asked "how everybody was." He asked his brother-in-law whether he should come to Pittsburgh and confess and McClelland told him that he would have to make up his own mind about that.

Stewart's 12-year-old daughter, living with her grandmother, knows nothing about her father's confession, "and isn't going to either," her uncle declared.

"Amen" is a word of Hebrew origin, having the sense of firmly, or surely, certainly, truly, and when used at the end of a prayer or creed, it has the meaning "So be it."

Deaths of the Day

W. F. Rutter, William F. Rutter, aged 67 years, passed away in his home, 611 Sampson street, at 7 o'clock this morning, after a two years' ailment.

Mr. Rutter was born in Portersville, on September 19, 1871, son of Alexander and Angeline Humphrey Rutter. Practically all his life was passed in New Castle; for 37 years he operated a grocery store on East street. Having been in business for so many years, he was widely known in New Castle and his death is occasion for regret by a legion of friends.

Mr. Rutter was a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church and of the local organization of Odd Fellows. He is survived by his wife, Minnie, and one sister, Mrs. George Mellen of New Castle.

The body has been removed to the Jos. S. Rice Co. Chapel, East North street, where friends may call. The family will be at the chapel tonight and Saturday night from 7 to 9 o'clock. Services will be conducted there at 2:30 p.m. Sunday and interment will be in Oak Park cemetery.

Harry Vernon McCullough

Harry Vernon McCullough, aged 48 years, of R. D. 2, King avenue, died in the New Castle hospital at 9 o'clock Thursday night, following an illness of just a week's length.

Mr. McCullough was born in Edenburg on December 17, 1890, son of Fayette and Amanda Shingledecker McCullough. Twenty-two years ago he married Viola Kathryn Maughan. Surviving are his wife, the following children, Harry, Jr., Kathryn Marie, Willard Forrest and John Eileen at home; three sisters, Mrs. George Hites and Miss Violet McCullough of New Castle and Mrs. James Reeb of Edenburg, and two brothers, Wilbur and Paul McCullough of New Castle. He was a brother of the late "Sank" McCullough, well known ball player. He himself was an outstanding baseball player in Edenburg and vicinity and was widely known. He was a fireman for the Pennsylvania railroad for ten years. He had a great number of friends and his unexpected death was a great shock to all.

He was married in 1917 and moved to New Castle in 1923.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2:30 p.m. from the Morrow funeral home, Rev. G. S. Bennett, D. D., pastor of the First Christian church will be in charge. Interment will be in Graceland cemetery.

Gordon Kinley Richards

Gordon Kinley Richards, one-year-old son of William and Mabel Richards, of 428 Summer avenue, died in the New Castle hospital at 5:30 a.m. today, following a short illness.

The child was born in New Castle February 6, 1938, and was the only child of the Summer avenue couple. He was a lovable little fellow, and his passing is a shock to those who knew him. His parents, grandfathers, Charles H. Mart and William Richards, and one aunt, Mrs. Owen Fox, all of this city survive.

Funeral services will take place Sunday at 3 p.m. from the home with Rev. C. H. Heaton, D. D., of the First Baptist church in charge. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

Mrs. Martha May Hogg

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha May Hogg, aged 73 years, who died at her home in Adams corner, Butler county, Wednesday afternoon, are to be conducted Saturday at 2 p.m. from the residence and interment will be in Slippery Rock cemetery.

Mrs. Hogg, widow of J. T. Deaths of the Day

W. F. Rutter, William F. Rutter, aged 67 years, passed away in his home, 611 Sampson street, at 7 o'clock this morning, after a two years' ailment.

Mr. Rutter was born in Portersville, on September 19, 1871, son of Alexander and Angeline Humphrey Rutter. Practically all his life was passed in New Castle; for 37 years he operated a grocery store on East street. Having been in business for so many years, he was widely known in New Castle and his death is occasion for regret by a legion of friends.

Mr. Rutter was a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church and of the local organization of Odd Fellows. He is survived by his wife, Minnie, and one sister, Mrs. George Mellen of New Castle.

The body has been removed to the Jos. S. Rice Co. Chapel, East North street, where friends may call. The family will be at the chapel tonight and Saturday night from 7 to 9 o'clock. Services will be conducted there at 2:30 p.m. Sunday and interment will be in Oak Park cemetery.

Harry Vernon McCullough

Harry Vernon McCullough, aged 48 years, of R. D. 2, King avenue, died in the New Castle hospital at 9 o'clock Thursday night, following an illness of just a week's length.

Mr. McCullough was born in Edenburg on December 17, 1890, son of Fayette and Amanda Shingledecker McCullough. Twenty-two years ago he married Viola Kathryn Maughan. Surviving are his wife, the following children, Harry, Jr., Kathryn Marie, Willard Forrest and John Eileen at home; three sisters, Mrs. George Hites and Miss Violet McCullough of New Castle and Mrs. James Reeb of Edenburg, and two brothers, Wilbur and Paul McCullough of New Castle. He was a brother of the late "Sank" McCullough, well known ball player. He himself was an outstanding baseball player in Edenburg and vicinity and was widely known. He was a fireman for the Pennsylvania railroad for ten years. He had a great number of friends and his unexpected death was a great shock to all.

He was married in 1917 and moved to New Castle in 1923.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2:30 p.m. from the Morrow funeral home, Rev. G. S. Bennett, D. D., pastor of the First Christian church will be in charge. Interment will be in Graceland cemetery.

Gordon Kinley Richards

Gordon Kinley Richards, one-year-old son of William and Mabel Richards, of 428 Summer avenue, died in the New Castle hospital at 5:30 a.m. today, following a short illness.

The child was born in New Castle February 6, 1938, and was the only child of the Summer avenue couple. He was a lovable little fellow, and his passing is a shock to those who knew him. His parents, grandfathers, Charles H. Mart and William Richards, and one aunt, Mrs. Owen Fox, all of this city survive.

Funeral services will take place Sunday at 3 p.m. from the home with Rev. C. H. Heaton, D. D., of the First Baptist church in charge. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

Mrs. Martha May Hogg

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha May Hogg, aged 73 years, who died at her home in Adams corner, Butler county, Wednesday afternoon, are to be conducted Saturday at 2 p.m. from the residence and interment will be in Slippery Rock cemetery.

Mrs. Hogg, widow of J. T. Hogg who died six years ago, leaves six children, Fred of Slippery Rock township, Roy of Pasadena, Cal., Raymond at home, Mrs. Hazel Kenney of Atwater, O., Mrs. Lucille Wood of Grove City, and Dora, at home, twelve grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, two brothers, C. W. Rhodes of California and Rev. M. L. Rhodes of Plainfield, N. J., and one sister, Mrs. Sadie Simons of Grove City. She was a member of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church.

L. V. Kelley

L. V. Kelley, aged 51 years, proprietor of a filling station near Slippery Rock, died in the Jameson Memorial hospital at 10:04 p.m., Thursday. He was taken to the hospital the night before.

Mr. Kelley was the husband of Mrs. Helen Frickhank of Clairton, Kenneth of Coakburg, Paul of Scenery Hill and Pearl of Slippery Rock. He was a member of the Slippery Rock M. E. church.

Funeral services will take place Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Methodist Episcopal church of Carmichael, Pa., and interment will be made in the Memorial cemetery at Waynesburg.

Mrs. Giamarino Funeral Time

High mass of requiem for Mrs. Carmen Giamarino of rear 8½ West Long avenue, will be celebrated Saturday.

town apartment, while Mooney established himself at a large downtown hotel with his multitude of admirers.

Mentioned Divorce

Mooney himself had made no statements regarding a possible divorce but several of his confidants admitted that there "seemed to be a bitter separation."

Mrs. Mooney, a copyist in the San Francisco Federal Music Project office, confirmed the rumors.

"Yes, Tom has mentioned a divorce, I can't understand it," she said.

"After all we have been through, we should be that much closer together, maybe all the crowds and praise, and the excitement have gone to his head."

Then, after a few moments of silent pause, she added:

"And maybe it's just that some of his new found friends have turned him against me."

"They say I am an anchor to Tom. All through those black, bitter years, I've fought for him. I helped save him from the gallows. I helped get him out of prison. I gave everything I could afford from the tiny sum I earned as a music teacher."

"I toured the state speaking for him. Several times I had to borrow enough money for railroad fare."

"Now Tom Is Hero"

"Now Tom is the hero. He speeds around the state in planes and automobiles, listening to the applause of thousands of people."

"I am on relief—at $45 a month. Tom's income but they wouldn't let me look at them."

"I asked to see the records on Tom's income but they wouldn't let me look at them."

"I wanted to go with Tom on his tour, but they wouldn't let me."

"Now we're old, I'm 61. We have been married 27 years and we've been through a lot."

"I want to spend the little life remaining for me with Tom Mooney."

EIGHT FIREMEN CAUGHT IN DEBRIS AT SYRACUSE, N. Y.

the seven men into the basement of the structure while charred debris and flaming timbers crashed down upon them.

At first it was believed that the men had met instant death, but Chief Edward G. Gieselman ordered rescue gangs to attempt to cut through the street pavement and then tunnel into the cellar on the off chance that one or more might have survived.

Hours later, as the rescue gangs burrowed toward their objective, they were galvanized into almost super-human efforts when voices were heard from the tomb of the trapped men.

Voices Fade

The words were indistinguishable but the rescue crews shouted words of encouragement and barked their picks and shovels against the tunnel walls to buoy up the hopes of their comrades. There was no response, however, and within a short time the voices faded, they died away entirely.

Nevertheless, the sweating grimy rescue crews pried their tools unceasingly, biting a path inch-by-inch toward the imprisoned men. Still standing walls of the shell-like ruins were pulled into the streets to keep their weight from dropping on the entombed men and rescue operations proceeded at full speed.

Cause of the fire, which summoned all city fire apparatus and public works equipment, was undetermined.

To Speak Monday At Woman's Club

DR. A. L. SACHAR

"What Is Youth Thinking?" is an important subject upon which Dr. A. L. Sachar, noted historian, biographer and educator, will address the Woman's club on Monday afternoon, February 6, in Highland U. P. church at 2:30 o'clock.

Dr. Sachar is one of the most popular speakers on the platform today, if forum polls are a criterion of a lecturer's talent for oral exposition.

The reason for his undiminished popularity is easy to understand. Dr. Sachar combines two essential qualities, lucidity and cogency. He has the rare gift of presenting the most diverse themes simply, charmingly and with refreshing humor.

Concerning Monday's talk, his material will be authoritative, dealing with what this generation is doing about serious problems.

Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. C. R. Ralph and Mrs. George Ralph.

SKIT AND PLAYLET PROGRAM FEATURES

Unusually fine was the February program of the Ladies Missionary society, Thursday afternoon, in the First Baptist church.

The program included a short and interesting skit entitled "The Interpreter," by Miss Eleanor Crawford and Mrs. Edna Zeigler; a vocal solo, "I Have a Friend," by Mrs. Stanley Reese with Mrs. W. H. Lukart as accompanist; a playlet, "The Other Side of the Bridge," directed by Mrs. Margaret Mitchell and with the Mesdames Jesse McCommon, Vesta Fisher, Clara Remley, Alice Davis, Olive Barbour, Reba McClain, Margaret Griffith, Cora Rigby, Florence Woodworth, Bee Emmett, Celia Young and Anna Dixon, and between acts a solo, "Soft in Your Hands, Lord Jesus," sung by Mrs. Paul Weiler.

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Balint Kish and Mrs. C. H. Heaton. Reports were submitted by Mrs. Harry Cook, Mrs. William Wilson, Mrs. Leonard Dandy, Mrs. Jesse McCommon, Mrs. Frank Kelly, Miss Laura Strickler and Mrs. Thomas Arthrell.

Quilt Top Club

Mrs. G. L. Todd, West Washington street extension, was hostess to members of the Quilt Top club, when they gathered in her home.

Afternoon hours were spent with the club members making 7-point star quilt patches.

A delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Todd, aided by Mrs. Fred Foster. Next meeting will be in two weeks, at the home of Mrs. Floyd Jones, West Washington street extension.

A special guest was Mrs. C. B. Bates.

Bingo was enjoyed with the prize going to Mrs. Charles Morgan.

In two weeks the club will meet with Mrs. William Thellman of Arlington avenue.

Sew-A-Bit Club

An enjoyable evening was Thursday when members of the Sew-A-Bit club were entertained by Mrs. Phil Conti of Pollock avenue.

Games and dancing were enjoyed. The club token was won by Mrs. Joseph Naples.

The president, Mrs. Louis O'Kuzo presented a lovely birthday gift to Mrs. Peter Polce, mother of the hostess, in honor of her anniversary. A birthday dinner followed. Mrs. Frances DePoalin assisted the hostess.

Special guests were Mrs. Anthony Fuleno, Mrs. Peter DeLorenzo and Margaret Polce.

On February 16, a Valentine party will be held, and also hankie showers will honor Mrs. Nicholas DeCarbo, and Mrs. John Fuleno when they meet at the latter's home on Lutton street.

Ritz Club Meets

Mrs. James Bonfigliengo entertained members of the Ritz club at her home on Glass street, Thursday evening.

High score prizes in cards were awarded to Mrs. Curtis Guckert, and Mrs. Anthony Panella. The club token was captured by Mrs. Fred Farouk.

A delicious lunch was served later by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Frank Boran.

On February 16, Mrs. James Bartlett of Robinson street will receive the group.

JUNIOR GARDENERS HEAR OWEN P. FOX

New Castle Junior Garden club held their monthly meeting Thursday evening in the library of the George Washington Junior high school. Guest speaker for the evening was the city forester, Owen Penfield Fox. Mr. Fox's subject for the evening was "Trees and Birds and their Relation to Man."

The address was considered to be one of the best ever heard by the club and its Board of Advisors. Mr. Fox brought out in his speech the fact that if all the trees on the earth would vanish at one time, mankind would live only about twenty-four hours, and that these trees are dependent on all bird life for their existence.

The latter part of the meeting was spent in choosing the club flower, tree, bird, and animal.

The next meeting will be held on March 2 at 7:30 p. m., in the George Washington library, at which time plans will be completed for the tagging of the various trees and plants in Guntion Park and for other work to be carried out in the coming summer.

JUNIOR WOMAN'S CLUB HEAR MISS VAN DIVORT

Meeting of the Junior Woman's club, was held Thursday evening in the home of Miss Ione Farver, Laurel Boulevard, when Mrs. A. H. Borland introduced as guest speaker, following routine affairs, Miss Mary Vandivort.

Miss Vandivort discussed in an interesting manner, the subject "The Political Situation in Europe," in Relation to the Casual Traveler." She stressed the attitude of the people of England toward war, and pointed out other facts regarding Great Britain and the United States that were most interesting.

The next assembly of the organization will be held with Miss Marian G. Campbell, hostess, on February 16. The program committee has arranged an unusual feature for this date, which will also be guest night.

S. E. CLUB MEMBERS THURSDAY MEETING

S. E. club members assembled at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Ferenbach on Milton street Thursday evening, Mrs. Marie Hartland was a special guest.

Cards were in play and prize winners were Mrs. Edward Koonce, Mrs. Albert Hunter and Mrs. Marie Hartland. A repast was served at a later hour with Mrs. Ruth Howard assisting.

Mrs. Robert Henry will entertain members at a downtown tea room on February 16 for the next meeting.

M. AND M. CLUB HAS DINNER GATHERING

The M. and M. club met at the home of Mrs. Cecil Spear, Sheridan avenue, Thursday evening for a tureen dinner.

Promptly at the appointed hour the guests were served at a prettily decorated table, with the hostess being assisted by her sister, Mrs. Robert Houston.

A special guest was Mrs. C. B. Bates.

GUAM WON'T BE FORTIFIED NOW

In stating that there is no plan for immediately converting Guam into a great fortification Charles Edison, assistant secretary of the navy, conveys a measure of reassurance to those who have opposed this dubious commitment. It has always been difficult to visualize such a far-flung outpost, only a few flying hours from Japan, as a part of our national defense scheme.

It would be giving a hostage to fortune and very doubtful fortune at that. We need not pay too much attention to Japan's feelings, but her government's statement that a fortified Guam, with fleets of airplanes and submarines, would be as a loaded gun pointed at a neighbor's door, is worth considering, with all its implications of trouble.

Guam, thus equipped, would undoubtedly help to stay a Japanese invasion of the Philippines. But we are not going to be their guardian forever. Defense of our own continental shores is the first consideration and the theory must be considerably stretched to require the defeat of a hostile fleet at the door of Guam, three-quarters of the way across the Pacific.

The proposed expenditure of $5,000,000 over a period of three years for improving Guam harbor and airplane facilities seems reasonable. Mr. Edison's hope that the future international situation will make it unnecessary to use Guam except as a commercial airport will be widely shared.

O'DANIEL GETS DOWN TO EARTH

The optimistic spirit of the former flour salesman and hillbilly band leader who is now the Governor of Texas must, indeed, have been subdued by the cold reception of his plan to finance a pension of $30 a month to every Texan who had come to or passed the age of sixty-five.

It is doubtful if in the whole history of American politics a candidate for public office has been received with such unrestrained enthusiasm as W. Lee O'Daniel. He sang and fiddled, and crooned and smiled his way into the heart of the electorate. He convinced the voters, with a magic all his own, that he would transform the Lone Star State into a Utopia. He would reorganize the operation of affairs, effect large economies, and, by thrifty, prudent management, produce revenues sufficient to fulfill his campaign pledges.

But Mr. O'Daniel, it seems, is not a magician or a fiscal wizard after all. He is just a politician, a little more crafty and original and demagogic than the average, but fundamentally the same. The pension money is not to be produced by economies or governmental reorganization, but by a transaction tax, imposing a toll of 1.6 per cent on every incident of exchange in the entire scope of business activity. If adopted, this tax would constitute the most devastating sales tax on the statutes.

Small wonder, then, that the legislature of Texas received the proposal with frosty silence, and that the man to whom the plaudits of the multitudes have been as food and drink for months had to leave the rostrum without having inspired a single expression of friendliness or support. Mr. O'Daniel, it appears, is now learning one of the more difficult lessons of public life. It is not quite so easy to perform as it is to promise.

WARMER WINTERS?

Under the influence of this strange Winter we lend our moral support to those elderly persons who, when reminiscing of the long ago, stubbornly insist that the Winters of their childhood were colder than those of today, even though meteorologists have been disposed to regard this idea as merely the product of creative memory.

They say that the Winters were not colder, but that the people, having fewer facilities for comfort than now, merely felt colder, a bit of palpable sophistry which will be readily recognizable as such by all discerning persons and will be dismissed as unworthy of serious consideration.

It so happens, however, that this theory of warmer Winters is not without scientific corroboration. Russian observers report that for twenty years the waters of the Arctic Ocean have been growing warmer, a circumstance which gives substance to the belief that the forces which brought the Pleistocene era to an end are still in operation.

And more power to them, we say. We're not envious of Florida or California, Hawaii or the French Riviera, but, nevertheless, warm Winters are not hard to take.

HOUSEHOLD ACCIDENTS TAKE HEAVY TOLL

The lesson that safety, like charity, begins at home is implicit in the National Safety Council's report on accidental deaths in the United States during the past year.

More persons lost their lives in accidents in their homes in 1938 than met death in traffic mishaps. The total is placed by the Council at 32,500, an increase of two per cent over the figure for the preceding year. Highway fatalities, on the other hand, declined 19 per cent, saving 7640 lives in the process. The encouraging drop in traffic deaths, brought about largely by increased educational and enforcement efforts, was the main factor in producing a generally better accident record for the year. Altogether there was a reduction of 10,000 in deaths due to accidents and a cut in economic losses from accidental deaths and injuries of $400,000,000.

The increase, in face of the general trend, in the so-called domestic accidents points its own warning. When more persons are killed falling down cellar steps, tripping over rugs, stumbling in bathtubs and engaging in similar misadventures than are slaughtered in automobile accidents, it is time to promote safety measures around the family fire-side. Carefulness in the ordinary routine of domestic life is just as important a factor in conserving lives as carefulness at the wheel of a motor car.

The grave problem of keeping Nazi Germany up financially is passed on to a fellow whose name is already Funk.

Still, if only one man in America is big enough for the President's job, we need a dictator—and a wet nurse.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

QUIETING SQUALING INFANT

IN THE same mail came two letters with practically the same problem. One mother wrote: "The baby has just passed his first birthday, and is just recovering from a three weeks' illness. . . . He screams constantly. . . . At first I believed earache caused it, but now that he is about well again (I've had the doctor's O. K.) he still screams. I don't think it's temper. I think it's just that he wants some one to stand near him and amuse him."

The second mother wrote: "I have a boy four years of age. . . . He most always wakes up cross. He squeals so much when things don't suit him and is rude. He always wants to call me names. Example, 'I want to go outside, you little dumb,' then squeals and shouts."

Reason Why
In both these cases, the child has learned that he gets rewarded for his screaming or squealing. Once your doctor has assured you there is no physical cause of the screaming or squealing, treat the matter as a bad habit. Work on yourself. When you can stand it no longer, assign the toddler to sit in a chair, if he will stay there, doing nothing for exactly twenty minutes. If at that time he is not through let him sit longer. When your child wakes up again and again in bad humor, let him know he will have no attention until he gets quiet. Show no feeling about the matter. Try to be nonchalant. In the meanwhile go your way.

When the little child screams to get you to amuse him, be busy then. Keep busy for exactly twenty minutes, say, ignoring him. Then regardless of how he acts, go to him and amuse him for about twenty minutes, and go away again to be busy. By following the clock yourself you will not be inclined to go to him too soon, and he will learn that his cries are futile.

And A Spanking
When the baby calls you names, bare his bottom immediately and give him several good smacks on his bare bottom. Make 'em hurt. Let there be no exceptions.

The first mother also wanted to know how to keep her baby reasonably still while "changing" or dressing him.

It might help to place in his hands an attractive toy, or sing a lullaby to him, or even to talk to him. These things failing after several days of patience, it is advised that the mother give the infant one or two sharp slaps on his bare bottom. The shock tends to have a quieting effect. Sometimes the stunt is "perfectly stunning." Why so many mothers will wear themselves out caring for a baby always wriggling and jumping is more than I can understand. They do not need to do it.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SOUTH AMERICA

South America was discovered in 1498, six years after North America. We don't remember the guy's name, but what's the difference, you didn't know him anyway.

The country was conquered mostly by Spaniards and Portuguese. Revolutions came along about 1810 because of restrictions on commerce in favor of colonists from high office, and all that, which sounds kind of modern in motif.

Along about 1823 President Monroe threatened to denounce any foreign power that tried to gain a foothold in South America and by 1826 in the last Spanish stronghold was surrendered. It was a beautiful spring day, as we remember . . . the flowers were in bloom, the air balmy and so on.

In his twenty or thirty years of preparatory work in South America, so that it would be safe for Hull to meet the gang at Lima and come back without his shirt (or did he?), a chap by the name of Philip Gildred took a prominent hand in the affairs of the score or so Republics, and the same Phil addressed a Rotary meeting in January, about as follows:

First: Are we losing trade in South America?
Answer: No, in fact they love to pay us $3,000 for a thousand dollar car.

(Interjected comment . . . and that really IS love.)

Second: What about BARTER? Well, it's this . . . any substitute for cash works wonderful until you begin to get down to the details, then CASH TALKS, and quite loudly, yes, yes.

Third: The Lima Conference was a huge success because it definitely convinced the South Americans that the United States is with them—both Democrats and Republicans.

Phil covered a lot of territory (about seven and one-half million square miles of it) in a concise understandable manner that was much worthwhile.

If we could only get the Democrats and Republicans to work together, we might get going again.

—but they say, "Wishing, of all enslavements, is the worst."

Hints On Etiquette

The simpler the second wedding for those widowed by death or divorce, the better taste. The bride does not wear white, or a veil or carry carriage blossoms. An inconspicuous wedding at home or church is best, with only relatives and intimate friends present.

To get your picture on all the front pages, you must have a swell coming-out-party, carry a football or rob a bank.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:19. Sun rises tomorrow 7:08.

Recently a Greenville businessman decided to get rid of a family of skunks which made a home under the floor of his store, so he started a fire under the building with sulphur. It produced results all right. The skunks, all nine of them, were driven out, but the store caught fire and almost burned down. It might have been cheaper for him to have moved away and left the skunks in peace. Skunks are like some humans. They can cause a peck of trouble.

WPA Cut Slap At Roosevelt
Narrow Vote Does Not Tell Story
New Deal Claims Two-To-One Majority

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Roosevelt spokesmen contend that the White House was not badly enough beaten in the senate, on the emergency relief fund issue, to signify much. In fact, they say that the vote for a $150,000,000 cut from the presidential figure of $275,000,000 really was not an administration defeat at all, because it is conceded that, if $275,000,000 proves to be insufficient and the president later asks for more, the lawmakers will have to appropriate it.

However, that does not tell the whole story.

True, the Rooseveltian requisition for $275,000,000 was slashed by a ballot of only 47 to 46—a mighty narrow margin, arithmetically speaking. But it is to be borne in mind that, on paper, the president's party has about a 2-to-1 majority on Capitol Hill. If his side had won 47 to 46 or by a dozen votes more, it still would have implied that "P. D." cannot control the bulk of his own political group in the senate. Or in the house of representatives—admit that maybe the original presidential estimate was not too high; if more is needed presently they agree that doubtless they will have to dig it up. Why, then, did they not do it initially? The only logical answer is that they felt like taking a jab at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue right now, while the jabbing is good. Their purpose was to notify the New Deal that they think it is over-spending.

Briefly, it was a deliberate, intentional White House-ward slap. Vice President Garner Nobody disputes that Vice President John N. Garner had more than any other individual to do with organizing the anti-Roosevelt rebellion in Democratic ranks in the senate. It is traditional that a vice president is influential in the house over which he presides. Garner is an exception. He has a lot of pull. He has a huge pull in the house of representatives also; he

There is no more room for dispute about that than there is that in such a conflict the selfish interests as well as the sentiment of this country would be overwhelmingly with the democrats. Despite inability to stay out in the end, 20 years ago and the clear fact that had we gone in at the start the terrific cost in lives and money to all hands concerned, including ourselves, would have been vastly less—despite these things, there is still some question as to whether we must be dragged into the next great war, if and when it comes. Most of them in position to judge think we must, but at least there is an argument for the other view.

HOWEVER, there is practically no disagreement on two pregnant points, which would seem vital in determining the American attitude. First, that the stronger England and France become the less likely they are to be attacked and the more chance there is for peace. Second, so long as England and France remain dominant and undefeated the security of the United States, a continent lying between the two great oceans, remains unimpaired. The reverse of these propositions is, first, that war will come only if the strength of England and France is not sufficient to make ultimate victory for them seem inevitable; second, that in the event of war in which the English and French lose their dominance the real American protection against aggression, which is bound up in the British and French fleets, will have gone.

TO those who hold these things true, solely from the standpoint of enlightened self-interest there seems but one sensible course to follow. So far as it is possible we should aid England and France to fortify themselves to a degree that will deter the dictators from any serious thought of war. There are two practical means of doing this—one is to supply England and France with whatever arms and ammunition they can pay for; the other is by making it clear that in event of a conflict, American resources as well as American sentiment would be enlisted on their side—not in the end, but at the start.

IF we do this with sufficient clarity and force, the chances of peace will be promoted. But, it is argued, if we do it and war still comes certainly we will have to go in. The answer to that seems to be that if we adopt the other course of rigid neutrality, in the event of a war, which we will have made more likely, there is not the least guarantee that still we would not have to go in—but if we do not go in and the democracies fail the measures we would have to take to protect ourselves in a world dominated by the dictators would be vastly more costly. In the light of these things, the national interests seem too tightly linked with those of England and France to permit us to remain indifferent to what may happen to them. The President's policy unmistakably indicates that this is his conviction. Every step he has taken in foreign affairs in the last six months confirms it. The extension of aid to France and England in their program of rearming is only the last development—but a perfectly logical one.

LOVELY PARTY HONORS SEMPER FIDELIS MEMBER

A surprise was given the Semper Fidelis club members Thursday evening when they gathered in the home of Mrs. Carl R. Tranquillo, 5 West Laurel avenue, for a social time.

She arranged the event in the nature of a St. Valentine's party, which too, was a medium of honoring the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Alfonso Scarazzo, which occurs on February 4. She was presented with a beautiful personal gift in behalf of Mrs. Tranquillo and Mrs. E. H. Scarazzo, as an additional remembrance.

Cards held sway, prizes going to Mrs. Carm Sacco for 500, Mrs. E. H. Scarazzo for brisico and Mrs. H. A. Fazzone, the club trophy.

The serving of a delicious lunch was a later pleasure, the table being attractively arranged. Mrs. Anthony Scarazzo and Betty DiMatteo aided. Mrs. Frank Colao gave the invocation.

Special guests were Mrs. Anthony Scarazzo, this city, and Miss Elizabeth DeMatteo of Pittsburgh.

In two weeks, Mrs. A. Budellazze of Temple avenue, will entertain at her home.

Section D, Y. L. B.

Section D of the Y. L. B. class, Third U. P. church, had their meeting in the home of Mrs. I. M. Eagle-son, East Washington street, Thursday evening. There were 28 members and guests present.

Motion pictures of vacation trips were shown, after which games were played. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Carrie Motimer, Mrs. Bessie Lutz, Mrs. Allan Cartwright and Miss Elizabeth Parker. Mrs. Earl McKnight, Mrs. Edna Lutz and Mrs. Mattie Badger aided the hostess in serving lunch.

On February 16, Mrs. May Bowers, 913 Adams street, will be hostess.

Section C To Meet

Section C members of the Third U. P. church, enjoyed the hospitality extended in the home of Mrs. Thomas McNichols on Chestnut street, Thursday evening.

Mrs. H. A. Anderson opened festivities, and plans were later made for an all day quilting, scheduled to take place Wednesday, February 15. Musical selections were contributed by Mrs. McNichols, Mrs. Arthur Wehr and Mrs. J. J. Richer. A guessing contest followed, with Mrs. Thomas McNichols and Mrs. Arthur Wehr, winning the awards.

On March 2, the group will meet again.

D. U. Club

Mrs. Jasper Donston received D. U. club members in her Morton street home Thursday evening. Five hundred formed the evening's diversion with Miss Dorothy Dute and Harriet Hemphill winning the prizes. Miss Bernadine Reider, a special guest, was presented with a guest prize. A tasty lunch was served by the hostess.

Miss Dorothy Dute, East street, will entertain on February 16.

L. A. B. Club

Mrs. James McCullough of East Washington street entertained the L. A. B. club members in her home Thursday evening. The time was devoted to playing bingo, with prizes falling to Mrs. Flora Cunningham and Mrs. Maude Jones. Lunch was served by the hostess, aided by Mrs. Paul McClymonds.

Mrs. Cunningham of East Grant street will entertain the group in two weeks.

Iona Kensington

Iona Kensington members assembled in the home of Mrs. R. J. Swanton, Delaware avenue, Thursday afternoon. Bingo and music provided the pastimes, prizes falling to Mrs. George Carr and Mrs. Edward Carr. A special guest was Mrs. Harry Ward. Lunch was served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Edward Carr, Dewey avenue, on Thursday afternoon, February 16.

FIELD CLUB BRIDGE HELD THURSDAY NIGHT

Members of the New Castle Field club gathered for a mixed bridge party Thursday evening in the club rooms, with Mr. and Mrs. Stewart P. Foltz in the role of hosts.

Prizes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gibson, S. E. Patterson and Mrs. B. F. Karlier, at the close of play. Lunch was the concluding feature.

In two weeks, a similar party will again be held at the club, with the hosts to be announced.

Sunday evening the membership will assemble at the club for the weekly informal buffet supper party. Serving will be from 6 until 8 o'clock.

FEDERATION JUNIORS MEET AT CASTLETON

Federation Juniors, assembled in The Castleton Hotel Thursday evening, at which time, Mrs. James D. Crawford was guest speaker. She gave an especially interesting and colorful talk on her recent trip to Europe, illustrating with lantern slides.

Another highlight of the program, was a talk on "Period Furniture" by Mrs. Walter McGee.

A short business period preceded, however, and at the close, a social was discussed to take place in two weeks.

Birthday Party

Mrs. Theresa Audino entertained on Thursday evening at her home on Taylor street, a group of friends in honor of the birthday of her husband, Joseph.

Games were played and an amateur contest was held. Prizes were awarded to Antoinette Longo, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Retort. The door prize was captured by Mrs. Thomas Morrello. Songs were sung by Frank and Charles Audino.

Later, the hostess served dinner, assisted by her daughters Nellie and Josephine.

Special guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Nick Alfano, Mrs. Concetta DeCarbo, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph DeMucio, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeCarbo. Those from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morrello, Antoinette Longo of Youngstown, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Retort and Elizabeth Retort of Hillsville.

Mr. Audino received many gifts in remembrance of the happy occasion.

A Valentine party will be held on February 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morrello, Youngstown, Ohio.

W. G. E. A. Club

Mrs. June Warner was hostess to W. G. E. A. club members Thursday evening at her home on South Ray street. It was decided that the name of the club would be changed and the name chosen is Playmate.

Games of 500 were played and the prize winners were Mrs. Lucille Robinson and Doris Phillips. The "gallies" award went to Sara Zink. Aiding the hostess with the serving was Mrs. Robinson.

Miss Clara Bodendorfer will receive members at her home on Bell avenue February 16.

Special guests were Mrs. Louise Burgo, Mrs. Rose Evans and Sara Zink.

Reunited Ladies League

Reunited Ladies League associates were pleasantly received in the home of Mrs. Margaret Hartman on North Crawford avenue, Thursday evening for a social time.

Bingo was chosen the contest with Mrs. Rebecca Strong, Mrs. Elsie Phillips and Mrs. Jessie Straight, winning the prizes.

In serving lunch at a later period, the hostess was aided by Mrs. Elizabeth Haines and Mrs. Marie Schaa. The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. George Wyman on Maryland avenue.

Jewish Ladies Relief

Jewish Ladies Relief Society will have their monthly meeting in the Cosmo club on Tuesday evening, February 7, at 8 o'clock. Hostesses will be Mrs. L. F. Kohn, Mrs. H. Waldman, Mrs. D. Tobin, Mrs. M. Lerner, and Mrs. H. Rosenberg.

STITCH-A-BIT HAS DINNER MEETING

A dinner featured the Stitch-A-Bit club meeting held Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Frank Hamilton, Warren avenue. Following the serving at 6:30 o'clock, cards claimed attention of the guests. Miss Margaret Bowers and Mrs. William Kyle received the prizes.

On February 13, Mrs. Leroy Book, Vine street, will be hostess to the club.

Miss Laura Brown, a special guest, assisted the hostess in serving dinner.

I. V. D. Class Meets

Members of the I. V. D. class of the First Christian church held a meeting in the church parlors, on Thursday night. Mrs. G. S. Bennett and Mrs. Julia Miller were co-hostesses.

Chinese checkers were provided for entertainment. Mrs. P. J. Callahan and Mrs. William Cain, were in charge of the program.

A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess, aided by Mrs. Ed. Hinton.

Next meeting will be on Thursday evening, March 2, in the church, with Mrs. John Clarke and Mrs. George Dufford hostesses.

Birthday Party

Erla Marie Pander, 430 Court St. was honored Thursday when a group of her chums gathered, surprise fashion, to help her celebrate her eleventh birthday anniversary.

The after school hours were whiled away with games. Following, a delicious spaghetti dinner was served. A large birthday cake centered the table. Mrs. Pander was aided in serving by her mother, Mrs. Samuel Callahan of Sharon.

Erla Mae received many lovely gifts in remembrance of the happy occasion.

Mrs. Williams Entertains

Miss Cleora Williams was a special guest at the W. K. S. T. club meeting held Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Neil Williams, Jr., of the Frew Mill road. Two tables of bridge were in play, high score going to Mrs. Floyd Rice, Mrs. Robert Howell received the galloping trophy.

A tasty lunch was served at the close of the evening.

In two weeks, Mrs. Earl Eckles, Crawford avenue, will entertain in her home.

Tippy Ten Club

Tippy Ten club members gathered Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Catherine Gerlach, Front St. Bingo was the chief diversion and a lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Helen Mrozek. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Helen Mrozek and Mrs. Josephine Stanek.

Mrs. Nellie Germick will be hostess to the group next Thursday evening.

What's What At A Glance

has not lost it since he was speaker there. True, he did not fancy the idea of voting in the senate to break a tie on the relief appropriation. He was absent, attending a cabinet meeting at the White House when that vote was cast. Senator Key Pittman, president pro tem, was presiding in his absence. The closeness of the division demonstrated how cagey John N. was.

Pittman, by the way, voted on President Roosevelt's side, but he would have done that anyway.

Senator Alva B. Adams of Colorado (a Democrat, but opposed to presidential spending) nominally led the fight against White House figures. Yet the real campaign was waged by Garner with, as his chief lieutenants, Senators Pat Harrison of Mississippi and Joseph F. Byrnes of South Carolina.

Senator Harrison notoriously is sore on the administration. When the late Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic senate leader, died, Pat wanted to succeed him. The administration plugged for Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky and he won. That may not be the reason why Pat has been an anti-New Deal Democrat ever since, but he has been.

Senator Byrnes is different. Early in the New Deal he was an enthusiastic New Dealer. Gradually he has been shifting contrariwise. I don't know exactly why—conscientious scruples, I suppose.

Republicans and Democrats

The nub of it is: The senate Republicans couldn't have made a dent in the Democratic line-up for the presidential $875,000,000 relief allowance if it had not been for the Democrats.

There were only 20 Republicans; 26 Democrats. The queer thing is that the odd 47th vote (the deciding one) was cast by Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, a dyed-in-the-wool Farmer-labrite radical. There were some additional miscellaneous ballots, some pairs and an absentee or two.

But essentially it was a John N. Garner victory, lining him up somewhat with Republicanism.

MUSICIANS ENDORSE "MOONLIGHT SONATA"

world famous pianist and one of the founding fathers of the Polish nation makes his appearance.

When the Regent Theatre announced its coming to New Castle film lovers and musicians united in their approbation of the move. The Music club agreed to act as sponsor of the picture during its three day stay in the Regent Theatre, February 6-7-8 and other musicians added their approval.

In a letter to Speer Marousis, manager of the Regent Theatre, Mrs. Lyle C. Hughes, secretary of the Civic Music Association said the following.

"You are to be congratulated for bringing such an outstanding picture as 'Moonlight Sonata' to the people of New Castle. It is one of those rare vehicles combining real enjoyment and lasting worth. Truly no one should miss it."

Mrs. Hughes is right. It is a picture no one should miss. The musical wizardry of Paderewski, the acting of Charles Farrell and Barbara Greene and the skill of Lothar Mendes in production. Truly a great picture one that no one should miss. Better come early. First show at 1:30 p. m. Then 3:35, 5:40, 7:50 and 10 p. m.

Unfortunately not all motion pictures are educational, nor cultural, and at times not even entertaining. But now and then the film industry turns out a picture that simply sweeps its way into the affections of the public.

Business Is Holding Steady Says Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
Copyright 1939—Publishers Financial Bureau

BABSON PARK, Florida, Feb. 3.—Despite the latest war scare, business is running along at the same level as a month ago. Because the sharp gains of the Fall have not continued, however, many people are disappointed. They have asked me if I am just as optimistic as I was on New Year's Day. My answer is "Yes". The domestic picture is the same as it was a month ago. Recent foreign developments are unsettling, but the basic European situation has not changed.

Business finished up the old year at 100 on my Babson-chart. It closed January at the same figure. The current comparison with a year ago, however, is much more cheerful. The December gain was 15 per cent, while January showed a 20 per cent jump over the level of twelve months ago. Last year at this time we were still going downhill. Hence, if business holds steady for a few weeks more, and then begins a substantial pick-up, my forecast of a 25 per cent gain for the first quarter will have been fully justified.

Steel And Autos Down
Currently most industries are moving along in fairly good shape. Steel operations, around 50 per cent of capacity, are 13 points lower than their December high of 63 per cent. Automobile assemblies of 90,000 per week are also down from their peak, but are 50 per cent ahead of the 1938 level. Textile mill activity is substantially higher. So are freight carloadings, after making allowance for the usual drop at this season. Coal mining and crude oil output are approximately the same. Electric power consumption is breaking all records this winter. Many people cannot understand why this is so in view of the fact that business is not breaking any records. The reason is that there are more household appliances in use today than ever. Rates are steadily dropping, thus encouraging the purchase of more and more refrigerators, ranges, etc. Yet only a small number of homes are completely "appliance"ed. Here are the figures: refrigerators, 52 per cent, ranges, 9 per cent; and water-heaters, 2 per cent. With a firm control over all costs, except taxes and labor, the utility companies have an interesting year ahead!

Building Still Increasing

Building, however, is the real work horse in the present business situation. New contract awards are way ahead of the year-ago levels and are at the highest point in many years. As a result, the lumber "cut" is very heavy; cement and brick sales are good; and orders for structural steel are propping operations in the whole building industry. Moreover, I expect building to hold these big gains this year, thus stimulating activity in the twenty-six allied industries.

January retail trade was, of course, off from the Christmas peak; but it held close to the relatively high volume of January, 1938. Much of my hope for a good year is pinned on retail sales. Naturally, we cannot have higher factory activity, more jobs, and bigger payrolls if goods do not move briskly across store counters. In this connection, I want to warn merchants and other business men:

You cannot expect to get your full share of the 1939 pick-up if you do not push your advertising. The time to spend money on your promotions is NOW rather than when business is booming!

Railroads Out Of "Dog House"

The railroad situation is better. Expenses have been slashed drastically. There has been an encouraging pick-up in freight carloadings since last Summer. The combination of these two factors has allowed many roads to pay all bills including interest on their bonds and still have a little money left over. Consequently, such carriers are beginning to buy new locomotives, freight cars, rails, and the like. A real burst of railroad buying might boost business into a prosperous period quicker than any other development.

The mining business looks a little uncertain to me. Last week I spoke about the failure of raw material prices to rise. This should help business, but temporarily it is tough on the mining regions. They await more monetary inflation. Actually, the wind seems to be blowing toward a reduction in the 65-cent government price for domestically mined silver. I am not a mining expert, but this might benefit, rather than hurt, the copper and lead business.

No Change In Outlook

Summarizing: The recent developments on the domestic business front have been satisfactory. The first month of 1939 was the best January in nine years, exceeding only 1937. Not one of the favorable factors which led me to predict a good year has changed. The European situation is no worse than a month ago; it simply is coming to a head. If business men keep their perspective and do not suddenly get a new "fear" complex, I see no reason why business should not continue to improve.

While the county tax millage cannot be formally set for 20 days, there appears to be no doubt that the total levy for 1939 will be six mills, four mills for the general fund and two mills for the poor or institutional fund. This will be a reduction of two mills over the eight-mill levy of 1938.

County Controller Frank W. Hill has completed the building of the budget and the completed work is well done. The budget is in the hands of the county commissioners and for 20 days is open to the inspection of the public.

In the following paragraphs we are presenting some idea of the details of the general fund budget, not taken up in a day or so.

The tax levy of four mills for general purposes is laid on a total assessed valuation of $63,174,699, estimated to produce $252,698.80. In this there will be some not paid. Occupational taxes are based on a total of $4,327,960, and the estimated return on this is $17,311.84. Personal property tax of four mills is laid on a value of $16,000,000 and this is estimated to return $64,000.

The general fund starts the year with $315,870.25 in the bank. The total estimated revenue and cash for the year is $659,928.02. From miscellaneous sources it is estimated $45,500 will be received. From taxes of prior years $45,750.

It is estimated the total expenditures for the year will be $482,350.37 and this will leave an estimated balance in the general fund as of December 31, 1939, of $177,577.65.

Breaking down the estimated expenditures show for administration $151,339.02, for the judicial department $95,671.61, for debt service $40,695. For capital outlay $71,500. This will include the remodeling of the Boyles property and the building of the proposed wing to the court house.

Breaking down the general accounts still further it shows the following expenditures, all of them estimated:

repairs, etc., $21,865; registration costs, $7625; primary and general election, $25,330; tax assessment, $17,500.

Treasurer's office, $25,059.62; tax collectors, $1625; controller's office, $9474; recorder of deeds, $14,020; register of wills, $1720; sheriff's office, $13,071.00; coroner, $1736.88; prothonotary, $16,453.33; district attorney's office, $13,550; law library, $3500; court, $37,140; county jail, $12,000; probation and parole office, $7220; juvenile and detention home, $4785.

Maintenance in institutions and other correctional and penal institutions, $31,650; charities, maintenance of adults in non-county institutions, $3650; maintenance of children, $4200; roads and bridges, $8000; interest and state tax on bonds outstanding, $16,695; bond redemption, $22,000.

In the liquid fund tax, which is the half cent per gallon returned to the county by the state, the balance as of January 3 was $114,137.43. Estimated return for 1939, $65,000. The estimated expenditure from this account include $16,695 interest upon highway bonds, $35,000 for road construction, $75,000 for land damages, $25,000 for bridge construction and reconstruction, or a total of $151,695. The estimated balance in the gasoline fund at the end of the year is $27,442.43.

Any taxpayer having any desire to see the budget, to ask questions or to get information has the right to go to the county commissioners' office and get such information as he desires. Twenty days from now the tax levy will be formally set.

Prothonotary John A. Edgar is being seen somewhat these days by people desiring to take out naturalization papers. It seems the government isn't moving fast enough. Some of the applicants have been in the country for 10, 15, sometimes 40 years without taking out naturalization papers. Now they have applied for them the government is expected to move quickly. The fact that they are not eligible for old age pensions might have something to do with their haste to get citizenship papers.

In the office of Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts John A. Edgar, Floyd C. Slaughter of New Castle files for a divorce from his wife Virginia Slaughter. They were married September 1, 1934. Description is alleged.

Presents Claim For Tire Damage

Samuel Braunstein, 1310 East Washington street, appeared before council Thursday and informed the city fathers that a tire on his auto was ruined while parking his car in front of the Wright market, East

Washington street, recently. He said an iron, used as a curb binder, was loose and protruded from the curb. Council took no action toward paying for the damage.

According to an oft-expressed opinion of attorneys for the city, the latter is not responsible for damages in events like this unless the city has knowledge of the hazard and has failed to correct the situation.

Braunstein said that, in his opinion, the city was liable for the damage because his wheels did not touch the curb and it would be impossible for an operator to notice the projection from the curb.

HILLSBORO, N. H.—How far does a dollar go? Determined to follow its path, Hillsboro wool n manufacturers have distributed 2,000 silver dollars among its employees. The merchants of the city have agreed to sell merchandise to the value of $1.10 for each of these dollars tendered in payment.

LUCKY DOGS?

(International News Service)
FORT WORTH, Tex.—Every dog is supposed to have his day; now Fort Worth canines will have three of them. The city council, spurred by the urging of Councilman Tunstall, President of the Fort Worth Kennel Club, voted $500 to construct a city dog pound for the first time. Now the stray mutts will be kept comfortable for at least three days on the chance someone may claim them. Previously they were shot as soon as the dog catcher brought them in.

"Command Performance" Impressions Are Given By New Castle Girl

In another interesting article from Washington, D. C., where she is a student at Chevy Chase school, Miss Layte Thomas Wheeler, of New Castle, gives impressions of the "Command Performance" presented in Washington, for the benefit of the president.

Here is the article:
Recently I attended a national event that was both unusual and spectacular. It was the command performance of "Outward Bound." On the eve of his nationally celebrated birthday, President Roosevelt commanded an all star performance of the current Broadway production starring Laurette Taylor and Florence Reed to play at the National theatre.

Shortly before the first curtain, Annabella, the French cinema star, and escort, were seated in the left box directly behind Mr. and Mrs. Jean Hersholt.
Then the door to the right box was opened and the First Lady entered and was promptly presented with an old-fashioned bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. Without delay she was followed by the president. The orchestra played the National Anthem and the entire audience, except Annabella, stood and applauded.

When the president was comfortably seated, his daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Roosevelt, entered accompanied by Errol Flynn, also of cinema fame, and were seated under the supervision of the First Lady in a box directly in front of the president.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt wore a deep red dinner dress and a white fur jacket, her daughter-in-law was attired in blue chiffon and a street length mink coat.

Before the rise of the curtain, Errol Flynn, who appeared ill-at-ease, divided his time smiling at those around him, dropping his scarf, and subsequently blushing profusely.

Between acts familiar Washington figures entered the presidential box to acknowledge the celebration. As a finale to the last curtain call Laurette Taylor, extended to the president the thanks of the entire cast. An ovation followed that was tremendous and continued until the distinguished guests had left the theatre, a grand climax to a socially historical event and the finale to a great performance.

List Nearly $50,000,000 Taxable Value In City

Taxable real estate for the year 1939, in the city of New Castle, is valued at $46,523,210; personal valuations, $2,487,400, and non-taxable property is valued at $8,476,950, according to a report of A. C. Shoaf, city assessor, made to council in meeting Thursday in city hall.

The Second ward has more taxable real estate than any other ward in the city, the report shows.

The total taxable valuation is listed at $49,010,610.

The valuations, by ward, follows:

Official French Executioner Dies In Home Near Paris

(International News Service)

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Henri Anatole Deibler, hereditary headman of France, who performed more than 300 executions in his long career as master of the French guillotine, died Thursday at the age of 75.

His passing brought the respite Deibler had sought for years from his gruesome task, handed down to him from his father at the turn of the century. A few years ago he pleaded for retirement, saying:

"To kill in the name of one's country is a glorious feat, one rewarded by medals. But to kill in the name of the law, that is a gruesome, horrible function, rewarded with scorn, contempt and loathing." Known as "Monsieur De Paris," the pseudonym reserved for centuries for the official executioner, Deibler led a quiet life at a little villa near St. Cloud, where he pottered about his rose garden constantly, emerging into public life only when his duties demanded the dispatch of a condemned murderer.

INSTALL SAFETY SIGNS

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—So motorists may know how fast they may safely negotiate a highway curve, the State of California is installing and testing a new system of road markers designating speeds at which curves may be rounded. The safe-speed sign, according to C. H. Purcell, state highway engineer, will be visible night and day and will indicate speed at which the curve can be taken under ordinary circumstances. All miles-per-hour signs will be in five-mile increments.

More Local Folks Visiting St. Cloud

New Castle District Colony In Florida Is Swelled By Late Arrivals

Many more local folks have arrived in St. Cloud, Fla. to swell the sizeable colony of folks from the district who are wintering in the southern resort town.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Aubel, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Barth, and Mrs. Bertha Wendt, of this city who are visiting in the state recently called on Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yoho at the latter's home on Connecticut avenue, St. Cloud.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blumen-shine, of Leesburg, have arrived for a stay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. McKay. Mr. and Mrs. Mc-Cracken, who are staying at Lake-land, recently visited St. Cloud friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Port Cooper, and children, Walter and Barbara of the Jacksonville district, have arrived and have taken a house on Pennsylvania avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cooper, and son Glenn, went to Tampa last week with Dr. and Mrs. Riddle.

—but telephone calls went through!

Caught in the icy grip of January's storms, Pennsylvanians turned to their telephones.

As highway traffic slowed down, telephone traffic speeded up. People called to change their plans, to cancel trips, to order more fuel or explain delays. Throughout the state, hundreds of thousands of extra calls went humming over the wires.

Not many years ago, such storms would have paralyzed thousands of telephones. Hundreds of miles of wire would have gone down. But last month, with winter at its worst, most telephones stayed on the job. With few exceptions, the calls went through as usual... swiftly, smoothly, without delay.

For many years, the Bell System has been working toward a goal of storm-proof telephone service—a service that will keep on serving when people need it most. Bell management has been planning it. Bell Laboratories have spent years in research, have developed better materials and methods. Western Electric, as manufacturers and purchasers for the Bell System, have produced strong, sturdy equipment that is "built to take it".

Today Bell Telephone men and women provide a service that no ordinary storm can halt. Meanwhile, Bell management is planning a future telephone service even better than today's.

In fair weather or foul, you need a telephone in your home. You can have one for less than a dime a day.

Three Million Could Be Put Back To Work

DuPont Says "Courage On Part Of Industrials Could Get Nation Out
Out Rut"

(International News Service)
WILMINGTON, Del. Feb. 3.—Industry in the United States could put 3,000,000 unemployed back to work for a period of five years through "courageous investment" of capital, Lamont DuPont, president of DuPont company, declared in his annual report today.

"An important contribution would be made to solution of the unemployment problem," asserted Du-Pont, "if industry generally could observe a policy of continuously developing new and better products, improving manufacturing methods through scientific research and invention, and courageously investing capital."

"As never before, the industrial structure of the nation needs enterprise and the investment of venture capital," the report stated. Pointing out that issues of new corporate securities are still three-fourths below normal, DuPont cited a need for "wise tax laws and carefully considered regulatory legislation to release idle capital."

The DuPont company paid $14-650,000 in employee benefits during 1938, the president reported to stockholders.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN GROUP WILL HEAR DEAN OF WOMEN ON TUESDAY

Baptist Attendance Campaign Underway

Drive For Increased Attendance Will Continue Until Easter Sunday

A new attendance campaign for the First Baptist church has been organized to continue until Easter.
The campaign was instigated, and explained to the members, by Paul D. Weller, Sunday school superintendent at the silver anniversary dinner held at the church January 25.

Attendance has been urged at church services, a. m. and p. m., Sunday school, prayer meeting and
B. Y. P. U. Each will be credited.
New members count five points each, all others as one point.

The 11 adult Sunday school classes have been divided into three colors —purple, yellow and white (Easter colors). From each adult class six members are to be selected, two for each color, to check on the attendance, therefore putting 66 more people to work for Christ.

General leader appointed, Orville Grossman; leader for white color,
Mabel Schunk; leader for purple,
Don Hackett; leader for yellow,
Clyde Brest; reporter, Mrs. Alex
Gardner.

Report Girl Is Accosted Here

While enroute home from her employment place at 1:25 a. m. today, Miss Clara Balin, age 21, of 113 Pul-ton street, was accosted by a man who was frightened by her screams and escaped in the darkness when pursued by Baltimore & Ohio railroad Detective Dickerson. The young woman was accosted in South Mill street near Home street.

Her assailant followed the girl from Grove street south and when near Grove street, seized and attempted to drag her into a doorway. The girl screamed.

A motor bus of the New Castle Electric Street railway came along and stopped. Operator Wolfe took the girl to a point near her home.

According to the police report the man wore a soft gray hat but no overcoat.

Alleged Insurance Murder Conspiracy Probe Nearing End

Coroner's Jury To Hear Final Testimony In Philadelphia
Investigation

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—A coroner's jury today was expected to hear final testimony in the investigation of an alleged "insurance-murder conspiracy" ring charged with responsibility for the deaths of four persons carrying $50,000 to $100,000 insurance.

Most startling testimony came when witnesses described the asserted pyramiding of 18 insurance policies totaling $14,031 on the life of 18-year-old Philip Ingrao, one of the alleged victims. When the boy died last June, Thomas A. Shern, an insurance agent stated, 15 of the policies were still in effect.

Inquests into the deaths of young Ingrao and Ferdinand Alfonsi, 39, were completed, and the deaths of two others, Charles Ingrao, Philip's father, and Giuseppe Di Martino were scheduled for investigation today. Held as principals in the alleged poison conspiracy are Herman Petrillo, of near Langhorne;
Mrs. Stella Alfonsi, widow of Ferdinand, and Mrs. Carina Favato, stepmother of Philip Ingrao.

Dr. Frank S. Massanico, who said he treated Philip Ingrao four times, testified Mrs. Favato asked him to issue a death certificate for the youth, but that he refused, and notified the coroner's office.

Dr. Martin P. Crane, coroner's physician, stated he certified Philip's death as due to rheumatic fever after a cursory autopsy, but that on examination of the youth's body latter, found traces of poison.

Mystery Witness Heard At Probe By Grand Jury

Name Of Mystery Witness Is Denied To Public, Files
Will Be Examined

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—Identity of another "mystery" witness puzzled observers of Dauphin county's grand jury investigation of alleged graft and corruption in the Earle administration today.

It was the second unidentified witness to go before the jurors in the seven weeks of testimony.

Presiding Judge Paul N. Schaeffer withheld the identity of the witness at the request of Earl V. Compton, special assistant district attorney.
Indictment of former Commonwealth Secretary David L. Lawrence followed closely on the appearance of the first "mystery" witness.

The off-delayed turn-over of Democratic state committee files were scheduled definitely for this morning. J. Dress Pannell, counsel for Carl K. Deen, resident secretary, and Frank E. Taylor, cashier, has successfully pleaded for several post-ponements with the contention that the files were being sifted of matterial irrelevant to the probe.

It was indicated that the juror wanted only to examine the committee's financial records before winding up its probe of "macing" charges.

Useless Operation Waived By Parents

Crippled Infant Is Taken By Death At Home In South Bend, Ind.

(International News Service)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 3.—A grieving father stood aside today and allowed nature to lead his five-months-old daughter on a short cut to death.

By intervening he might have prolonged the infant's life a few months, but doctors advised the end would be the same.

The father, Willis H. Sriver, head of a private detective agency, decided:

"If she must die, it is best she die quickly."

Able to drink and eat normally and apparently in no pain, the child was found to have been born with four vertebrae missing in her spine.
"It is hard to believe that she cannot live like any other child," said Sriver, "but it seems an unnecessary cruelty to submit her to a useless operation."

"If the operation would insure her life, even though it left her a crumple, I would consider it. But I am told she would live only a short time longer at best."

"We will let nature take its course."

$2400 annually.

Federal Treasury
To Borrow Three Billion Before June
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The federal treasury will borrow more than $3,000,000,000 before June 15 to augment government cash reserves for anticipated recovery and national defense expenditures.
Official reports indicated today that approximately $1,226,000,000 will be borrowed from the public through issuance of new government securities. It is likely these new securities will be offered for sale next month and early in June.
Another $1,300,000,000 of treasury notes maturing June 15 will be re-financed through issuance of extra securities. This also may be done next month.
In addition, $500,000,000 of social security tax money will be "borrowed" by the treasury for general expenditures between now and the end of the fiscal year in June.
Secretary Morgenthau will confer with federal reserve officials later this month on how the borrowing program should be carried out in the light of current market conditions.
The anticipated expenditures for the present fiscal year are the greatest since world war days and the added borrowing will boost the public debt to a record peak of $41,000-000,000 on June 30.

Amateurs Ready To Show Wares

Croton Band Fund Will Benefit By Amateur Show At Franklin Auditorium

AMIL LELENKO TO ANNOUNCE ACTS

Lights, curtain, music, this will be the three words that will call the amateurs to attention tonight at 8 o'clock at the Ben Franklin High Auditorium for the big benefit "Amateur Night" show being staged by the New Castle Athletic Association for the Croton Band uniform fund.

Master of ceremonies for the show will be Amil Lelenko, New Castle's No. 1 actor, and a most talented impersonator. The association was very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Lelenko.

Acts Of All Kinds
There will be between 20 and 25 acts for the patrons. There will be acts of all kinds, tap dancing, ballet dancing, acrobatic dancing, acrobatics, violin, guitar, jugglers, yodlers and a kid's swing band. It promises to be a real entertainment and the price is so low that no one can afford to miss it.

Franklyn R. Crisci, general chairman of the benefit show hopes that the turnout tonight will enable the association to turn over enough money to the Music Council to pay off the balance on the uniforms.

Miss Dorothy Patch and Professor Hoffmaster, together with Mr. Lelenko, Miss Billie Glenn and Miss Nellie Brady have co-operated very nicely with the committee.

All participants in the show tonight are to report at Franklin High Auditorium anytime after 7 o'clock, and apply to Charles P. Walther who will assist Mr. Lelenko, in staging the show.

Mrs. John Stoner, who resides with her granddaughter, Mrs. George Shenker, who has been confined to her home with illness, is much improved.

J. F. Evans of Mansfield, O., and formerly a resident of New Castle, who underwent a serious operation in the Mansfield hospital, remains about the same.

Charles Rohrer, of West Lincoln avenue, who has been confined to his home by illness, has been removed to the Jameson Memorial hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Evelyn Gort, of the Harbor road, who underwent a second operation within the week, at the New Castle hospital, is getting along as well as can be expected.

Mrs. Peter Karidis, Delaware avenue, who underwent a serious operation several weeks ago, has returned home from the New Castle hospital and is improving nicely.

Edwin Wilson, a student at Penn State College, State College, Pa., will arrive home today to spend the mid-year vacation period with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wilson, Young street.

Jack C. Thompson, 203 Hillcrest avenue, who underwent an emergency appendicitis operation in the New Castle hospital on Thursday morning, is getting along as well as can be expected.

John Thomas, of the County Home, who was taken to the Jameson Memorial Hospital, a week ago, is slowly improving. He was struck by an automobile, receiving a number of severe bruises.

Mrs. W. J. Duff, Enon Valley, a patient in the Jameson Memorial hospital, is getting along as well as can be expected. Mrs. Duff, mother of Robert A. Duff, North Shennango street, received a fractured hip in a fall at her home on Sunday.

Miss Uhl discussed plans for a junior camp and Mrs. Coloa gave a talk on cooperation.

C. D. Of A. Troop
Girls of C. D. A., troop 7, met in the home of Helen Venditto, South Jefferson street, recently. The girls continued their tests and games were played, the prize falling to Anita Sacco. Angelina Venditto aided her sister in serving a lunch.

Seven Physicians Will Aid Probe

To Meet In Pittsburgh Today To Confer On "Poison Pie" Case

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3.—In an attempt to coordinate the various investigations now being conducted into the "poison pie" death of Charles Letitia Allsopp, formerly of Charleroi, and serious illness of four other women, seven physicians were to meet here today.

A recent chemical analysis has shown that there was enough poison in the home baked pie to kill a rat instantly. Those made ill by eating the pie were Mrs. Peter Maracini, her two daughters and a maid in the house.

An investigation as to the possibility the cherries in the cans used for baking the pie may have caused some of the distress felt by those who ate it, developed that a type of bacteria was found, but whether the bacteria had formed prior to the opening of the cans could not be determined.

Today's meeting was called by county coroner P. J. Henney, for this afternoon and in attendance will be state and county authorities, inspectors from the U. S. Department of food and drug inspection, and chemists who analysed contents of the pie.

It has already been shown that there was a sufficient quantity of sodium fluoride, a powerful rodent killer, mixed in with the flour in the pie, to cause serious illness—if not death. Further tests are to be made of internal organs of the dead woman and additional cooking materials found in the Maracini home.

GIRL SCOUTS

HIGHLAND LASSIES

The younger girls of Highland troop 22, will now be known as the Highland Lassies. This action was taken at the meeting held in the Highland church on Tuesday evening, January 31. The meeting opened with the game, "Rachael," led by Miss Barbara Parsons.

At the next meeting, a number of girls will receive merit badges.

TROOP 9

Troop 9 held their regular meeting Wednesday evening in the Epworth church. The meeting opened with patrol corners. Later, the girls formed a horseshoe formation and Elsie Johnson received her tenderfoot badge. The remainder of the evening was spent with games.

The meeting closed with taps and a short court of honor. The next meeting will be Wednesday, February 8.

Scribe, Mary Louise Davis.

TROOP 13

The girls of Troop 13 held their regular meeting Wednesday, February 1, in the basement of the Second U. P. church. Games were played, followed by patrol corners.

First class girls are working on first aid. Frances Bovard and Pauline Sizer, second class scouts, passed their fire prevention tests.

The meeting closed with a friendship circle, the song, "Run Along Home" and taps.

Scribe, Anne Smolinski.

Members of the Italian Mothers club were entertained on Thursday evening in the Green room of the Y. W. C. A.

President Mrs. Millie Pratt appointed various committees for the club's play, to be presented on February 16. A party will follow later in the Green room.

Needlework and cards were enjoyed. A new member, Mrs. Bridget Budellazze, was initiated into the club.

Later, a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Frances Delsignor, Mrs. Lucy Gizzi and Mrs. Lily Farone.

On February 16 the club will meet again.

JUNIOR BUSINESS GIRLS

Members of the Junior Business Girls met in the craft shop of the Y. W. C. A. at 7:30 on Thursday evening. Miss Esther Siberson was in charge. At 8:30 the girls gathered in the Rose room for their regular meeting.

A plan was adopted to raise sufficient funds which will enable the club to send delegates to the summer conference at Wells college in Aurora, N. Y.

A light lunch was served later by LaGene McEntire.

On February 9 the club will have a bowling party.

Report Young Girl Missing From Home

High Street Girl, 18 Years Of Age, Missing Several Days

City police were asked today to conduct a search for Mary Antontti, age 18, of 66 High street, who has been missing several days from her home. The reason for her disappearance was not given on the police report, neither were there any clues as to where she may have gone. The police were given a photograph of the girl and it is likely that copies will be sent to police of other cities.

Her description follows:
Hair, dark brown; eyes, brown; height, 5 feet 8 inches; weight, 130 pounds; wears spectacles; coat, green; hat, black and white; shoes, black; hosiery, light. Bears a scar on her face and arm.

PUC Appointed 182 To Jobs In Less Than Month

Entire 182 Were Named Between December 13 And End Of Earle Administration

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—Personnel records disclosed Thursday that the public utility commission appointed 182 persons to positions between December 13 and the close of the Earle administration. In addition, 61 employees of other departments were transferred to the commission payroll during that period.

The commission dispensed with the services of 31 employees in the period. Records revealed that 17 engineers from Kansas, Connecticut,
New York and New Jersey were numbered among the 182 appointees.
Two former members of the house were given commission berths. They were Alde S. Rush, Chester, and William C. Dickinson, Harrisburg.
Both were Democrats who served during the 1937-1938 session. Rush was named a telephone engineer at $3,600 yearly while Dickinson was appointed a motor vehicle investigator at $1,800.

Norman Macauley, Philadelphia, and Robert H. King, Cynwyd, assistant secretaries to former Gov. Earle, were named motor vehicle investigators. Pay increases aggregating $16,800 a year were given to 63 employees of the commission.

(Copyright 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NO SERUM CAN GUARANTEE INFANTILE PARALYSIS RE- COVERY

With our imaginary case of infantile paralysis now diagnosed by the lumbar puncture, as we described yesterday, the question now is, how can the doctor prevent your child from becoming paralyzed?

Unfortunately, there is no drug or serum he can prescribe that is going to guarantee that the disease won't continue. About ten years ago there was a serum produced for polio which was made by taking blood from those people we knew had already had the disease and recovered from it. This serum was eagerly seized upon by all parents when a child developed symptoms that were suspicious. They insisted that the serum be given, regardless of what the doctor thought about it.

The result was that for the ten years during which this serum was popular, it was very, very expensive because of the demand for it. Now when we look back on it and analyze the cases where it was used, we find that it did no good as far as we can see. I recall that I gave it to a number of cases here, and it seemed to me that it helped. But the trouble is that in spite of this serum, the disease went on crippling just as many boys and girls as it did before.

Of course it is extremely difficult to convince parents that the serum is of no benefit. They feel that if there is the remotest chance that it will help the child, it should be given. This viewpoint is quite understandable, too, for it gives the father and mother the feeling that at least everything possible is being done.

The definite thing your doctor can do, if he has diagnosed the disease with the lumbar puncture, is to get the child to a hospital where he will be given complete nursing care, even more than is possible in any home. I have known parents to object to their child being taken away to the hospital. Although this is foolish of them, it is understandable, and in that case we have to do the best we can at home. Parents do well to remember that when the doctor advises hospital treatment in such cases, he does so because it is the best advice he can give you.

Many of the muscles most frequently affected by polio—the legs, the arms, the back—can be placed in complete rest by the use of sand bags and splints in the bed. The child with polio shows a fever that runs as high as 103 degrees although it rarely goes higher. This fever lasts for about a week, and then returns to normal.

If your child is going to be crippled by this terrible disease, if he is going to have to go on crutches or wear special harness and braces all his life, the paralysis will take place while his temperature is elevated. If it drops to normal and the child has no muscle weakness, there is very little chance of it developing.

The Human Side Of The News (By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Living in a shack on a wind-swept beach of Long Island is a man who cherishes a strange ambition. He is an artist, a Russian emigre, a victim of the Bolshevik revolution. His name is Gleb Volkov, son of a physician who attended Czar Nicholas and the royal family until the evil days fell upon the Romanoffs and the mob seized Russia.

In those days Gleb Volkov's playmates (the avers) were the children of the Czar and Czarine, and among these children, the one named Anastasia. He came to know her as well as he knew his own mother's face.

And he asserts, with a kind of passion, that the young Russian woman who came to this country ten years or so ago as the guest and protégé of the former Princess Xenia of Greece, who had been, also, Mrs. William B. Leeds, was positively none other than the Grand Duchess Anastasia, her brother and her four sisters and her father and mother were murdered by the Bolsheviks in the cellar of a house in the city of Ekaterinburg in Siberia.

The Russian royal family had been sent to this bleak region while Lenin, Trotsky & Co. made up their minds what to do with them. The Commissar in charge was a cold-blooded rascal named Yourkovsky. Either by orders from the Red leaders in Petrograd or on his own initiative, he decided to slaughter the entire family. He had them dragged to the cellar of the house where they were in prison. A file of troops marched into the bleak, bare rooms. There he stood them up against the wall, the father and mother and the children one boy and five girls. Yourkovsky read the death warrant. The Czar stepped forward to speak. Nobody knows what he had in mind to say for Yourkovsky raised a pistol and shot him through the heart. Screaming with laughter the Red Soldiers leveled their rifles, a distance of six feet, and literally riddled all seven prisoners. The bodies were carried out, kerosene was poured upon them and they were burned.

Now the woman who has claimed ever since that she is the Grand Duchess Anastasia has agreed that all of this is perfectly true, except for one particular. She claims that she was wounded only and left for dead, but that she was saved by a Bolshevik soldier who was secretly in love with her. He smuggled her out of the death chamber, concealed her in a hut near Ekaterinburg, and finally succeeded in escaping with her to Bucharest. There they were married.

It is a weirdly romantic tale, one to take its place with the legend that Lincoln's assassin John Wilkes Booth was not shot to death in a barn near Washington, but lived to a fine old age as an Oklahoma farmer; and that Marshal Ney, Napoleon's great cavalry leader, did not perish under the rifles of a Bourbon firing squad in 1815, after the great Emperor's down-fall, but was smuggled by the Masonic order out of Paris and France, came to this country under the name of Peter Ney, and died a very old man, as a school teacher in North Carolina.

The cold-blooded, unutterably brutal murder of the royal family occurred on July 16, 1918. If Anastasia, by some miracle, escaped that massacre, she would be 35 now. It was a dozen years ago that she made the acquaintance in Europe of the former Princess Xenia. The Princess had been a playmate of the Romanoff children and was so convinced of the identity of Mme. Anastasia Tschakowsky as the Grand Duchess Anastasia Nicolaievna, that she brought the woman to this country in 1928. However, surviving members of the Romanoff family who had seen the lady and had talked to her asserted emphatically that she was not a Romanoff, but an out and out impostor.

The last heard of this interesting person was that she was in a sanitarium in Germany.

Volkov is fanatically convinced of the truth of Mme. Tschakowsky's claims, and declares that the truth will appear and a great injustice be righted. To this end he is devoting all of his efforts and most of his money, working indefatigably.

TRY THIS NEW WAY TO SERVE CREAMED CHICKEN IN CRISP BASKETS

MADE IN A JIFFY WITH Spry! FINE FOR CREAMED FISH AND VEGETABLES, TOO

CREAMED CHICKEN IN CRISP BREAD BASKETS

¾ cup Spry 2 cups milk, or chicken broth
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt 1 pint milk, finely cut
¼ teaspoon pepper 2 cups cooked chicken, cut in pieces
¼ teaspoon celery salt 8 slices bread
¾ cup Spry, melted

Melt Spry in top of double boiler; add flour, salt, pepper and celery salt and blend well. Add liquid gradually, stirring constantly. Cook until smooth and thickened. Add pimiento and chicken and heat thoroughly. (Notice what a delicate flavor cream sauces have, made with pure, bland Spry.)

Trim crusts from bread. Dip bread slices in melted Spry and fit each slice into inside of muffin cups, pressing well against sides and bottom of pan. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 10 to 12 minutes, or until golden brown. Fill bread baskets with hot creamed chicken. Serve 8. Try these crisp, golden bread baskets for creamed meats, seafood and vegetables, too. They're delicious—and so easy to make.

(All measurements in this recipe are level)
(Clip and save this Spry recipe)

It's fun to cook the Spry way and my, what good "eats!"

"CAN'T cook? Fiddlesticks!" says Aunt Jenny. "You just use Spry and see how easy it is to get light, velvety cakes an' tender, flaky pastry."

"Spry's purer an' creamier, mixes so easy, gives things an extra-fine flavor. As for the old notion of fried foods bein' hard to digest, why, Spry's knocked that idea higher 'n a kite! You fry the Spry way an' foods will be so crispy an' light a child can eat 'em. Change to Spry today."

Peter Preaches At Pentecost

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"Not by might, nor by power, but by My spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."—Zechariah 4:6

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 5 is Acts 2:1-13, 36-41, the Golden Text being Zechariah 4:6. "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts.")

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
Two weeks ago the lesson told how Simon Peter three times denied his Savior when the latter was arrested, and of his bitter grief over his unfaithfulness. It was related last week how he was forgiven and how he declared his love for the Risen Christ, who told him to preach the gospel—to "feed my lambs," as the account relates.

Peter was a strong man. Although he might make a grave mistake, he didn't let it wreck his life or spoil the good he still could do. He had denied his Savior, but his repentance was sincere, and now he was determined to do what was right, no matter what might befall him.

The Bible story tells how Jesus had said to His disciples that where as many were baptized with water, they—the disciples—should be baptized of the Holy Ghost. They were gathered together for the Pentecost—or Jewish harvest festival—when "suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting."

"And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them."

"And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance."

This was at Jerusalem, and there were gathered in the city people of "every nation under heaven," and when they heard the disciples talking in different languages, they thought they must be drunk with wine. But Peter stood up and said that it was not drink that made the disciples act thus, but that they were inspired of the Holy Ghost.

Rev. A. J. Hill, superintendent of the New Castle and Erie Districts of the Free Methodist church, will speak tonight and Saturday evening at 7:30 and Sunday morning and evening, in the Arlington Avenue Free Methodist church.

Rev. Hill is well known in this city and his many friends in the church and city will want to hear this able minister of the gospel.

The new infantry gun is kept shooting by its own gas. But haven't we always had big guns like that?

Screen's Tom Sawyer Finds Hollywood 'Heartbreak' Town

By MILTON HARKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1939)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3.—Tommy Kelly, the screen's Tom Sawyer who was scheduled to make "Heartbreak Town," the story of the woes of a child star in Hollywood, is finding out that this is a town which would break your heart if you'd let it.

The Selznick studio, which brought Tommy here 18 months ago, an unknown boy from the New York Bronx, has failed to pick up his option, which means that for the moment he is without a contract. That is a heartbreaking moment for any screen player, young or old, just getting going, unless you keep your chin up. Tommy's keeping his up.

For one thing, three studios are bickering with his agent to engage Tommy at a bigger salary than Selznick paid him, and a final deal may be closed next week.

Tommy, who's 13 now, was selected from 25,000 boys to play the lead in "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer." It was a search almost as extensive as the one for Scarlett O'Hara.

"Heartbreak Town" has been abandoned for the time being because all the studios resources are being turned to "Gone With The Wind." So that left no spot for

Bee Keepers To Meet On Tuesday

Annual Meeting Will Take Place In Agricultural Association Office

Lawrence County Beekeepers Association plan to hold their annual meeting on Tuesday evening, February 7, in the office of the Agricultural Extension Association, Room 206 Post Office Building, New Castle. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

According to Heber C. Anderson, president of the association, everyone is cordially invited to attend the meeting. He also states that anyone interested in purchasing bees this spring should come to the meeting with their orders in mind. The spring orders will be placed in the very near future.

Following a short business session Edwin J. Anderson, bee specialist of Pennsylvania State College, will give a discussion on "Up-to-date Bee Management Practices."

"It is usually a draft," says an M.D. column, "that makes your feet cold." This is especially true of an overdraft.

STRATOSPHERE CLUB

(International News Service)
SACRAMENTO, Cal.—A description of the disadvantages of the life of a tall girl, published in a Los Angeles magazine, brought a flood of sympathy to the author, Miss Kae Kryslar, so today she is a charter member of the California tip toppers. The club's 40 lanky members, averaging six-foot-six in height for men and six-foot-two for women, create a sensation during the night club, ice skating and beach parties. Tallest of the tall is a young man six-foot-eleven.

Spanish War Vets Are Ready For Maine Day

Robert G. Woodside Of Pittsburgh Will Be Principal Speaker

BERT STEVENSON IS TOASTMASTER

Maine Day dinner of the local camp of United Spanish War Veterans and the Auxiliary will be held this year at the Legion home on Monday, February 13, at 6:30 p. m. The committee has secured Col. Robert G. Woodside, controller of Allegheny county, as the principal speaker of the evening. Invitations have also been sent to O. G. Crawford of Erie, department commander of Pennsylvania, and the Hon. Joseph A. Heinemann of Butler, president of the Northwest Varsity council, and they are expected to bring greetings from their organizations.

Bert E. Stevenson, a Spanish War Veteran who has spent many years in Porto Rico and who has recently returned to New Castle, and is making it his home, has consented to be toastmaster for this occasion. There will be good music and after the program is completed, bingo will be played for which the comrades and the members of the Auxiliary will furnish the prizes.

This is an annual affair and a large attendance is expected.

Some Chinese wear white to funerals and, in some places, the male wears skirts, while the female wears trousers.

Charges Quartet Forced Him To Drive Them To This City

Police Officials Here Seek Three Men And Woman—Driver Not Robbed

State, county and city police today sought three men and a woman who were alleged by an autoist from Talmage, O. near Akron, shortly after midnight, to have forced him at the point of a revolver to drive them from Talmage to West Washington street extension, where they left the car. The man was not robbed nor abused, it was learned.

State Motor Policeman Walter A. Gibbons, who received word of the alleged occurrence, made a quick investigation, said the autoist gave his name as John W. Conway.

One of the men, Conway told Gibbons, had pointed a revolver at him when Conway's car was stopped last night for a traffic light in Talmage. The four then entered the car.

They forced him to drive to this city, arriving here at 12:45 a. m. today.

One of the men knew this city and directed Conway how to reach West Washington street extension. After the quartet left the auto Conway was taken to Parktown Corners and telephoned state motor police who immediately telephoned descriptions to other law agencies in an effort to apprehend the four.

AROUND CITY HALL

Mrs. Martha Fox, president and Mrs. Lucy M. Pettit, secretary, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, have notified city council that the local tent of the organization, voted in favor of giving the city permission to move the monument they had erected on the Public Square to a new spot on the Square and where city officials would like to have it.

Cal Hubbard To Be Speaker At Lions

Cal Hubbard, nationally-known American league baseball umpire and one-time All-American tackle, will address the Lions club at its weekly meeting Tuesday, February 7. He officiated in the 1938 World's Series.

A resident of Zellenople, Hubbard is a former Geneva college football star.

COUSIN IS DEAD
Mrs. Alice Mohard, Edgewood avenue, has received word of the death of her cousin Mrs. Roy Whaley, nee Mayne McFate, of Callaway, Nebraska. Mrs. Whaley passed away on Tuesday, January 24, in the hospital at Kearney, Nebraska.

GOSPEL TABERNACLE
Tonight at 7:30 the members of the Gospel Tabernacle will gather in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Grimm, Sr., 448 Court street.

Abraham Lincoln expressed his sentiments in regard to the Civil War and slavery as follows: "My paramount object in this struggle is to save the Union, and is not either to save or to destroy slavery. If I could save the Union without freeing any slave, I would do it, and if I could save it by freeing all the slaves, I would do it; and if I could save it by freeing some and leaving others alone, I would also do that."

Push Organization Of G. N. C. A. Drive Teams

Solicitation teams for the Greater New Castle Association's intensive membership drive opening Monday, February 6, were being organized by campaign chiefs today. Campaign General Chairman Louis B. Round announced.

Speakers Continue Round
And as the team organization went forward, association officers and drive leaders pushed forward their "introductory conferences" with another group of civic and professional organizations.

At 3 this afternoon a large number of New Castle's insurance men will meet in The Castleton to hear the G. N. C. A. program outlined by Chairman Round.

Dentists of the city, notified today by telegram of their meeting, are also to hear the Greater New Castle movement presented at a rally in The Castleton.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath, one of the original leaders of the association this afternoon will discuss the G. N. C. A. plan further in an address over WKST at 5:45. Ross D. Rosenberger, chairman of the speakers' committee, said his group

Threats Of Martial Law For Tulsa

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 3.—Renewed threats of martial law for Tulsa were made today after yesterday's outbreak of violence in connection with the strike of International Oil workers at the West Tulsa refinery of the Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation.

County Attorney Dixie Gilmer declared he would ask for martial law for the entire county if further violence occurred. His statement followed the ninth pipeline blast since the strike began. The explosion occurred on a Mid-Continent line near Konawa.

Lloyd Trio Plead Guilty To Charges

Thomas, Harold and Edward Lloyd, youths, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering, before Justice of the peace David Pearsall yesterday, he reported today.

The informations were made by State Motor Policeman Yahner. It was alleged they attempted to steal the auto owned by Attorney Orville Brown, Wednesday morning. Thomas and Harold are brothers and resided at Pulaski, R. D. 1. Edward is a cousin and was living at 801 East Lutton street, Pearsall stated. All are in jail awaiting Lawrence county sentence court.

Medical Society Hears Speakers

Dr. Donaldson, State Society Officer, Guest; G. N. C. A. Plans Told

Dr. Walter F. Donaldson, prominent Pittsburgh medical leader was guest speaker last night before the February meeting of the Lawrence County Medical Society in The Castleton. Dr. Donaldson, now secretary of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania, is a former president of that organization.

He discussed last night the activities of the Committee of National Health, a group of which he was a member and which met only recently with President Roosevelt at the White House. He told of the medical legislation which the committee presented to the president.

The Greater New Castle association aims were outlined to medical men in an illustrated talk which Louis B. Round delivered. Accompanying Round to the meeting as guests were Norman E. Clark, president of the new civic group, and Frank Hoyt and Loy H. Patterson, association leaders.

The speakers were introduced by Dr. F. D. Campbell of Bessemer, president of the county group.

AUTO FIRE
Central firemen were called to Epworth street at 1:25 p. m. today to extinguish a small fire in an automobile.

Speaker For Boy Scout Banquet Is Announced Today

Plans Are Furthered For Observance Of National Boy Scout Week Here

THOMAS J. KEANE

Thomas J. Keane, national director of senior scouting, for the Boy Scouts of America, has been announced as the speaker for the anniversary dinner to be held in the Shelby Club in Ellwood City on February 14.

The banquet is perhaps the high spot in the local celebration of National Scout Week. The banquet will also mark the 29th anniversary of Scouting in the United States.

Mr. Keane is very well known in Scouting circles. He is a well known author of stories for and about boys and boy activities. It is his job to direct the program of Senior Scouts, boys 15 years of age and up. This group of scouts was recently added to the Scout program.

Mr. Keane's experience as a camper, explorer, navigator, executive, engineer, author, leader of older boys eminently fitted him for his position. He is considered one of the outstanding speakers of the Boy Scouts of America.

According to Scout Executive Karl F. Green, plans are almost completed now for the local observance of Scout Week. A full program of activities is being planned from February 8 through February 14.

New Scout Troop Formed In Pulaski

New Wilmington District To Invest Troop At Honor Court Next Week

Plans were announced today for the investiture service for a new Boy Scout Troop in Pulaski. The troop, just recently formed, is under the sponsorship of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches in Pulaski.

This new troop will be formally installed on Thursday evening, February 9, at a Court of Honor session for the New Wilmington Boy Scout District. This Court will be held in the Presbyterian church in Pulaski at 7:30 o'clock.

According to Scout Executive Karl F. Green, credit for organizing this troop goes to Irwin Ropp, district chairman; Tom Jones and J. W. Ferris.

Legion Of Honor Hears Stevenson

Interesting Talk Is Given On Conditions In Porto Rico Last Evening

Members of the Legion of Honor, of the Valley of New Castle Consistory, heard Bert Stevenson, local man who has resided in Porto Rico for a number of years, give an interesting account of conditions on the island, which is an insular possession of the United States.

Plans were furthered for a annual Washington's Birthday banquet which will take place the latter part of the month, when officers of the Consistory will be guests of honor. At the conclusion of the evening, the kitchen committee served a tasty lunch.

Lawrence Mission Special Program

Rev. J. P. Jasper announces a special program for the Lawrence Mission on Lawrence street Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The program subject is "Pictures of the Past," and promises to be of unusual interest.

Mrs. Julia Toney will lead the discussion. Mrs. G. H. Walker has promised to entertain with musical selections. Mrs. Mary Durham will direct the juvenile quartet.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Dinner Is Held At Ward Church
 Brotherhood Dinner Meets
 With Success In Christian Church Basement

Close to one hundred members of the Madison Avenue Christian church gathered in the church dining room for a General Brotherhood dinner, Thursday evening. This dinner was one of many being held by the Christian churches about the country.

A fine program was presented as follows by the program committee: Robert Park read a clever poem. Miss Delphine Jones played a violin solo. Everyone took part in a quiz about the Christian Brotherhood. Rev. Milton E. Shearer delivered a short but well chosen message on "Fellowship." This event was sponsored by the Women's Missionary society, and was in the form of a turkey dinner.

BOY SCOUT TROOP MEETING THURSDAY

Members of the Boy Scout, Troop 4, held their meeting on Thursday evening in the Madison Avenue Christian church. At the meeting, the junior assistant scoutmaster conducted the opening ceremony. Patrol corners were assigned, in which dues were collected and tests reviewed. A period of game playing was held, with Hallett Johnson and Oliver Kerr in charge. The troop was called to attention by the scoutmaster, Wilfred Paul. The closing ceremony was conducted by the singing patrol leader, Lawrence Spears. On February 9, the scouts will meet again. Scribe, Robert Castrucci.

JANE BOLLINGER HOSTESS TO CLASS

Miss Jane Bollinger, West Madison avenue, was a pleasing hostess to members of the W. W. U. class of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, Thursday evening, when they gathered in her home. Miss Le-nore Christy was co-hostess. This is the class taught by Mrs. W. F. McClurg and Ruth Glenn was in charge of the devotional. Games were provided for entertainment. A delicious luncheon was served by Miss Bollinger, aided by Mrs. W. R. Bollinger, Mrs. Ernest Christley, and Maude McCullough. Next meeting will be at the home of Betty Alexander, Cherry street.

MRS. T. D. SMITH ENTERTAINS CLASS

Members of the McCoy Bible class of the Mahoning Methodist church held a meeting Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. T. D. Smith, East Cherry street. Mrs. William Weitz was co-hostess for the meeting. Mrs. Claire Arble was in charge of the devotionals. A program of games and fancywork was provided for entertainment. A delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Weitz, aided by Roberta Wampler. Next meeting will be on March 2.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

Strange as it may seem, a green Christmas tree strangely appeared in the alley behind the Norris block Thursday. The tree was still green, retaining a great deal of its pine. It is wondered whether some family just took the tree down or where it came from.

A suggestion from the post office in the ward is that persons sending money orders should keep their receipts. At different times receipts are found in the baskets in the office.

During the past week quite a number of house trailers were seen going through the Seventh Ward. One would think that all homes on wheels would be in the land of sunshine at this time of the year.

Community Party Planned Tonight

Men's Club Sponsor Of Event
 Tonight In Mahoning Methodist Church

Men from this community will gather in the Mahoning Methodist church basement tonight, for another community party.

The party is under the sponsorship of the Men's Club of the Methodist church, and all of the men of the district are invited.

According to Rev. D. J. Bladell, a fine program is being worked out for this party, and the refreshment committee announces a luncheon.

Purpose of these parties is to create a spirit of good will and fellowship in the district. These parties were originated at the time that Rev. C. H. Hagadorn, was pastor of the Methodist church.

Many Sign Up
 In Association

Membership Cards For Greater
 New Castle Association Distributed

According to a report from the officers of the Seventh Ward Civic club, it was learned that quite a number of merchants and citizens of the ward are signing up for memberships in the Greater New Castle Association.

Most of the memberships are being handled through the Civic club for those in the ward.

Application for membership in the association was sent to all of the merchants in the ward, and to quite a number of interested citizens. It was also learned that the Seventh Ward Civic organization plans to go into the Greater New Castle Association as a group.

GIRL SCOUTS MEET AT CHURCH IN WARD

Girl Scouts of Troop 19 held a meeting in the basement of the Mahoning Methodist church.

Needlework was the main topic of the girls during the meeting. Several of the girls worked on examinations and tests.

Plans were made for future activities of the group during the business meeting.

Scribe, Verlee Mauermann.

AUXILIARY HAS TUREEN DINNER

Meeting in the American Legion home, North Jefferson street, on Thursday afternoon, members of the L. A. to O. R. C. held a delightful tureen dinner and business meeting. A delicious menu was served at 12:30 o'clock by the committee in charge.

An informal period of chatting and games provided entertainment during the hours.

Mrs. Harry Rankin will entertain the group in her West Cherry street home in two weeks.

MISSIONARY GROUP

Tonight, members of the Hi-Try Missionary society of the Madison Avenue Christian church, will meet at the home of Myrtle and Delphine Jones, Mt. Jackson road.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

Miss Helen Druschel, Mt. Jackson road, is confined to her home by illness.

Dr. R. J. Riddle, North Cedar street, is confined to his home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dillon, formerly of North Cedar street, have moved to Logan street.

Anthony Russo, Montgomery avenue, has returned to his home from the Jamison Memorial hospital.

Mrs. David Bender, Sr., West Madison avenue, has returned to her home following a visit with relatives in Ridgeway.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—Continuing its campaign against President Roosevelt under the slogan, "Peace Enemy Number One," the officially inspired German press today charged the president with having "committed a second blunder" in "picking" Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes to answer the radio address of former president Herbert Hoover.

Der Andriff, propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels' newspaper declared:

"The would-be Wilson in the president's chair became so confused over the flagrant failure of the anti-German war campaign that he asked the ill-reputed Ickes to do something against the avalanche the American people set rolling against the war slogans.

"Ickes who is known throughout the world as a war monger is the worst defender Roosevelt could pick for abolishing the bad impression created by himself in the world."

LIBERAL DEMOCRATIC CLUB TO HAVE MEETING

Members of the Liberal Democratic club of Lawrence county, will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the Clendennin hall.

Nomination of officers will take place at this time, preceding the election which will occur at the meeting, Friday evening, February 17. J. H. Grittle, vice chairman, will preside at this evening's session.

(International News Service)

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., Feb. 3.—Early collapse of the hunger strike by 2700 San Quentin convicts—approximately half of the prison's population—was predicted by officials today as obdurate felons went into the third day of their demonstration.

The convicts still declared "monotonous" menus were the cause of the strike, but Warden Court Smith delved for a secret, underlying motive which he felt sure was the actual cause.

The strikers, whose principal purport was the weekly presence of "canned wille" (corned beef hash) on the bill of fare, lost a third of their number yesterday at breakfast call.

The remainder got the change of diet which they demanded—they were each given a two-pound loaf of bread and plenty of water, and were told that they would get only that until they "promised to be good."

All the strikers were kept locked in their cells throughout the day. At breakfast today, Warden Smith said, they will again be given the alternative of going to the mess hall or remaining in their cells on the bread and water diet. They will not be asked to partake of the luncheon or supper, the warden reported.

Except for one brief outburst of boos and shouts, the strikers remained fairly quiet throughout yesterday in contrast to the first day's turbulence. They supplemented their scanty food with candy bars and cookies which they had purchased from the prison commissary and hoarded. About a half dozen men became unruly and were sent to "Siberia," the prison dungeon. Three later were returned to their cells upon a promise to behave.

EDENBURG

BROTHERHOOD DINNER

Members and their families of the Christian church held a Brotherhood dinner in the church on Thursday evening with a large crowd in attendance. This marked the second annual dinner for the Disciples of Christ. After dinner, a program of music was enjoyed, with a Brotherhood quiz. Greetings were read by Rev. Vaughn, from the foreign fields and from local churches. Mrs. Joseph Park and Mrs. Clarence Jones, were the accompanists.

EDENBURG PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Park and children, spent the evening recently at the home of her brother, Fred Coates at New Castle.

Mrs. Charlie Hoover is recovering from an attack of the lumbago.

Fred Coates and family, Mr. and Mrs. Willis McBride, Rev. Vaughn, Mrs. Belle Stanley and Mrs. Mayme Ashton, New Castle, attended the dinner at the Christian church Thursday evening.

Stewart Having His Troubles As Forestry Chief

Newly Appointed Secretary Of Forest And Waters
Washes Hands Of Old Deal

WATER AND POWER BOARD WILL ACT

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—Forests and Waters Secretary G. Albert Stewart today washed his hands of negotiations engaged in by his predecessor for the purchase of 44,000 acres of abandoned timber and coal lands in Dauphin and Lebanon counties.

At the same time, Stewart placed the issue squarely before the water and power resources board for further action. Any move to reopen the negotiations, he insisted, would have to come before the new board.

"The status of that deal is as though it never existed," Stewart commented on the proposal that the state buy the lands from the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company. He said the proposal "has been thrown out" by the board and a new start would have to be made in reopening negotiations.

Deal Cancelled
Stewart's predecessor, Dr. James P. Bogardus, cancelled the deal a few days before he left office in the face of sharp criticism that he was attempting to "throw something good" in the way of an old fraternity brother, Attorney Allan Gray Clark, Philadelphia, who was negotiating for the land sale.

Dr. Bogardus defended the purchase as a good investment in line with conservation purposes. Clark had offered to sell the lands at $4.50 per acre. The offer was later withdrawn.

Only Thomas C. Buchanan, public utility commissioner and C. A. French, commissioner of fisheries, were members of the board during the Democratic Earle administration. Three remaining members include Stewart, Health Secretary John J. Shaw, and an unnamed engineer appointed by the governor.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)
Cancer is a change within cells. A disturbance of intracellular chemical balance, perhaps. Such cells grow and multiply. They flourish on less oxygen than is needed by normal cells. However cancer cells are destroyed by radiation quicker than normal cells.

Since time immemorial man has been studying cancer. It has been attacked by everything from witchcraft to surgery.

We know two things necessary to produce experimental cancer. There must be an outside irritative factor.

There must be an inherent susceptibility to cancer. Cancer may be cured if treated early enough.

Delay in diagnosis and treatment of cancer is dangerous.

Capitol Boy Is Killed By Auto Near His Home

Millard F. Caldwell, 3rd, Son
Of Rep. Caldwell Of Florida, Killed

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Struck down and dragged 50 feet by a hit-run motorist, Millard F. Caldwell, 3rd, 13, son of Rep. Caldwell (D) of Milton, Fla., was killed today.

The accident occurred a short distance from the Caldwell home, as the boy was on his way, through a foggy, rainy morning, to Capitol Hill. He was employed as a page in the house.

A taxicab driver, who saw the body lying almost in the middle of the street, summoned an ambulance. He said the boy was still alive when he found him, but that he died before the ambulance arrived.

The grief-stricken father, who has served six years in the house, claimed the body at the morgue, while police searched for an automobile showing evidence of being the death-dealing vehicle.

The Caldwell family has two other children, both girls.

No wonder families were larger in the old days. A baby didn't cost anything but a week's board for your mother-in-law.

UNIQUE HONOR
ST. PAUL, Minn.—Edward Hoffman, owner and manager of Radio Station WMIN, St. Paul and Minneapolis, is believed to be the only radio station manager in the nation to be admitted to practice law before the Federal Communications Commission.

Hoffman has a large gold sealed certificate from the Commission approving his petition to practice. He is a graduate of the St. Paul College of Law and organized WMIN early in 1936.

Modern inventions demand a shift in employment in labor fields. In 1937 airplane factories employed 828 men for 100 given work in 1923-5. Railroad locomotive factories employed only 50 for 100 employed in given work the same period.

FALSE ALARM
City firemen were called to Maitland and South Jefferson streets at 9:30 p. m. Thursday when an alarm was sounded from Box 85. Firemen were unable to find any fire in that vicinity.

Stock Market Trend Easier

Irregular Prices Prevail In Trading On New York Market This Morning

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The stock market developed generally easier tendencies today, following the sharp run-up late yesterday. A few issues dropped as much as a point, but losses in most cases were limited to fractions and trading was generally dull.

Steels, rubbers, motors and copers were among the weakest groups. Utilities were firm and active at the start, but gave up gains in the second hour. Gold shares were independently strong.

Included among representative issues to lose a point or more before meeting support were U. S. Steel, American Car & Foundry, Anaconda and Chrysler.

American Telephone gave up more than 2 points of yesterday's spurt of 5 1/2.

U. S. Rubber, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, DuPont, American Smelting, Kennecott, General Motors and Standard Oil of N. J. gave up large fractions.

Pullman, Dome Mines, Chesapeake & Ohio and North American, new, held on to modest gains.

Rev. Daubenspeck Addresses Rotary On "Attendance"

Westminster And Carnegie Tech Debating Teams To Be Featured Next Week

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 3.—Rev. F. H. Daubenspeck, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, was the speaker of the evening and gave a challenging address to members of Rotary club in the Presbyterian church upon the requested subject, "Attendance," setting forth in forceful manner that attendance was a first law of any organization of the nature of a service club, fraternity, church, etc.

In turning the program of the evening over to the committee on attendance, Mr. Mackasek said the chairman, Mr. Mackasek said the chairman of the committee on attendance, in the language of the advertiser, was a "perfect blend," inasmuch, for a number of years, Mr. Patterson was in charge of an institution (penitentiary) which had a perfect attendance record. Mr. Patterson introduced the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Daubenspeck exemplified the spirit of Rotary or Kiwanis in that he had responded to the request for this address in the spirit of service, upon short notice, taking time out of a very busy schedule to prepare the address. He made a number of excellent points. He stressed the importance of attendance.

The life of a Rotary club, a church or other institution which depends upon fellowship for strength of life, rests largely upon attendance for success. Members who do not attend lose the spirit of the organization, do not know the objects and purposes of the association and become indifferent. An important reason for weakness in attendance is the matter of belonging to too many organizations.

Another important reason given was lack of initiative (polite language), laziness, in common parlance.

A special feature of the evening was music by a violin quartet composed of Josephine Fleischer, Sam Rice, Bruno Laritz and George Kalliger. The quartet was accompanied by Miss Marjorie Streeter and was under the direction of Paul Winters. The first number was "Gavotte Classique" by Welleley, and was played by the quartet. A second number, "Minuet Noblesse," was a duet played by Josephine Fleischer and Sam Rice. The playing of the young musicians was of good quality and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Thomas Mansell represented the New Wilmington Rotary club in bringing the invitation to the annual buckwheat rodeo. Unfortunately the date of the rodeo conflicts with the first session of the Rotary Institute of Better International Relationships, February 10.

Edward Mackasek announced the program for next week, a debate between debating teams from Carnegie "Tech" and Westminster college. "Should Public Money Be Used To Stimulate Business?" Robert Lieberman of Wurttemberg is a member of the "Tech" debating team.

MRS. JACK KIMPEL ENTERTAINS CLUB

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 3.—When Mrs. Jack Kimpel graciously entertained the J. A. P. club on Thursday evening at her home in Wurttemberg, husbands of the members were special guests. Another guest of the evening was Mrs. Orintha Bishop.

The hours were passed pleasantly with five hundred as the diversion and the awards were given to Mrs. Alvin Neineinger and Mrs. Elmer Nicklas.

President's Ball Proceeds Estimated

Tentative Plans For Boxing Match To Augment Funds Made By Committees

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 3.—When the various committees of the President's Ball met last evening in the Chamber of Commerce offices, they heard a summary report of the proceeds derived from the benefit dance held on Monday night at the Elks club.

A total of $266 has been reported, with a number of tickets still being out. Total expenses for the affair amounted to $55, leaving a balance of $211 on deposit at this local bank. Thirty per cent of this amount will be sent to the national paralysis fund. A detailed report will be announced in the next few days.

Setting $500 as a goal with which to purchase paralysis equipment for the local hospital, the group decided to hold another benefit to augment the dance proceeds. Tentative plans were made for an amateur boxing match to be held on Monday evening, Feb. 27, under the sponsorship of the Elks club. The place will be determined. Merit F. Book was named general chairman of the match, which will include eight bouts to be arranged by the popular local matchmaker, Joe Lattiano. Ray Eberle of Beaver Falls will be the announcer.

Finance committee in charge of the event includes George Heintz, Dr. C. H. E. Heling, Dr. C. M. Iseman, Burgess William McGilguy and Rev. C. Z. Bell.

Air Force Of Germans Best

Authorities Believe Nazi Flying Corps Is Best In Europe

WOULD MAKE WAR BRIEF AND BLOODY

By RUSSEL F. ANDERSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The German Reich today is better equipped to wage an aerial war than any other nation in Europe.

Working the Nazi state under the pressure of industrial mobilization, Chancellor Hitler, according to the best military sources on the continent, has forced a flying corps capable of fighting a quick devastating war.

Russia with more planes, although a good percentage are obsolete, is Germany's closest rival.

In analyzing the relative aerial strength of Europe, Pierre Cot, former French air minister, and one of the best informed military men on the continent declared: "Soviet aviation is formidable and Germany fears its power."

Fascist States Stronger In Air
If war were to break out tomorrow between the totalitarian states of Germany and Italy and the democracies, military experts in all countries concede that Hitler and Mussolini would have a slight advantage.

Should Russia lend her support to the Anglo-French axis, the balance of power would fall the other way. "In a long war, the democracies can not be defeated," Cot declared, "unless Germany gets access to the graineries of central Europe and the oil wells of Rumania."

Sources of supply could be readily cut off by the admittedly superior British and French navies, Cot believes.

Short War Foreseen

Germany and Italy are building up their offensive and defensive forces on the theory that in the event of war, it will be a short conflict, and that the countries capable of leveling the enemy with death-dealing bombing planes within a few days will prove the victor.

In this respect, Germany has a distinct advantage as both London and Paris are within easy striking distance of her borders, whereas Berlin, set deep within the Reich, creates a problem for enemy bombers who are forced to make a long flight over enemy territory before reaching their objective.

To partially offset this disadvantage, Great Britain has an arrangement with France, whereby British planes can make use of French border airports in the event of European hostilities.

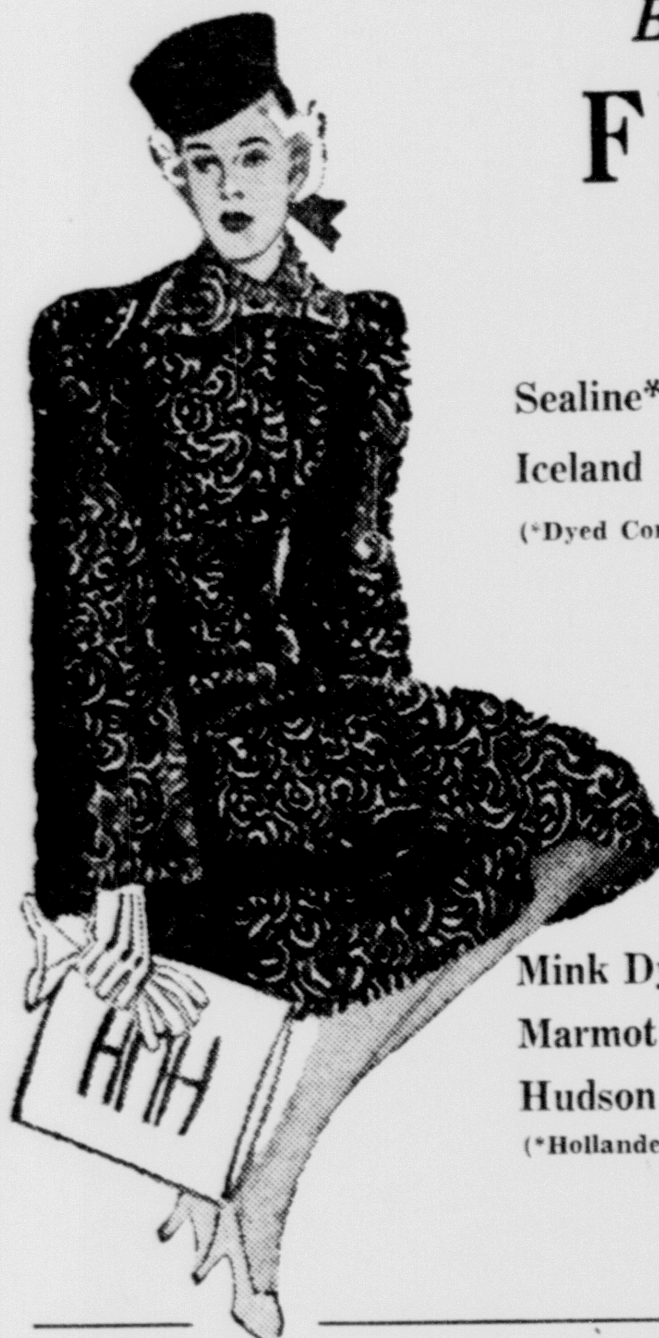

Strategic Bases In Spain
The totalitarian states have acquired in Spain a strategic position for both air and naval bases. In Spanish Morocco, the dictators are in a position to shut off France from her African colonies.

Strategically, this is the best card held by the totalitarian states. United States participation in any general war is not given serious consideration by European military experts. Although recognizing America's air superiority, military leaders point out that war, if it comes to Europe, will come quickly, and that if United States were to plunge in, too much time would be lost before Uncle Sam's warplanes could be put into action.

MODERN VS. ANCIENT ART
(International News Service)

PARIS—They'll be some fireworks in Paris pretty soon on the question of modern art and ancient art. Workmen are just completing the installation of 12 new stained-glass windows (done by modern artists) in the famed Cathedral of Notre Dame. The new windows will be compared with the older stained windows done by ancient artists. The modern windows did not replace other stained glass but plain windows.
